Czechs Facing Loss of Voice In Government

Nazis May Abolish All Semblance of Self-Rule
SLAYING CAUSE

Severe Restrictions Put on Town Where Officer Was Killed

Prague—(AP)—German authorities strengthened punitive measures against Czechs in Kladno tonight, but gave them another 24 hours to solve the slaying of a German policeman.

An ultimatum issued yesterday by Reich's Protector Baron Konstantin von Neurath expired at 8 p. m. (1 p. m., C.S.T.) tonight without any clue to the killing having been found by Czech gendarmes.

The new order decreed that anyone who has knowledge of who the slayer was but fails to disclose his information to police will be shot if discovered.

It also closed the streets between 8 p. m. and 5 o'clock a. m. Anyone found outside between those hours must prove that he was going about his work.

It postponed further more drastic measures until 8 o'clock p. m., Saturday.

Prague—(AP)—Nazis are ready to abolish the last semblance of Czech self-government, informed nazi quarters said today, in a retaliation for the slaying of a German police sergeant.

This was the meaning, the informants agreed, of restrictions placed upon the industrial town of Kladno, 15 miles from the capital, following the killing of policeman Wilhelm Kniest, in front of the Kladno Technical school Wednesday night.

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the reich protector, (governor of Bohemia and Moravia, formerly part of Czechoslovakia) after removing Kladno mayor, appointed a new official, disarmed the Czech state police, closed public places and several schools, forbade outdoor assemblies, and ordered windows and doors locked at 10 o'clock p. m. with the warning guards would shoot into open windows.

Czech residents of the town have until 8 o'clock p. m. today (2 p. m., E.S.T.) to find the policeman's slayer or undergo further drastic restrictions, Von Neurath's order read.

60 Arrests Made
Czech sources reported some 60 persons were arrested. Germans said the measures were intended as a sample of what would result if Czechs forego the generally passive attitude which has existed since the nazis took possession of the country March 14-16. Hitler declared that Czechoslovakia had ceased to exist. He established a protectorate over the Bohemia-Moravia districts. Germany took charge of foreign affairs, defense, utilities, and customs. President Emil Hacha was permitted to remain but the reich protector is the chief authority.

It seemed to some observers that perhaps a test of strength was developing.

The policeman was the first German fatality reported since the German troop occupation. Sabotage and minor demonstrations against the Germans have been frequent.

Numerous Czech officials have been arrested recently. Mayors of eight cities have been replaced. The police director at Brunn and several other police officials were arrested on charges of burning documents.

Two Sisters Drown In West De Pere Pond

West De Pere—(AP)—Audrey Herms, 12, and her sister Arleen, 10, drowned while swimming in a fish-rearing pond near the fair grounds here late yesterday. Their bodies were found by Edward Lafond, owner of the property, about an hour after the children were reported missing.

Girls at Dance Are Lightweights

Most of the girls at the Northwestern University law school dance the other night were diminutive — and for cause. As admission, their escorts had to pay one-third of a cent per pound of woman. Scale attendants reported that most girls hovered around the 100 mark — the heaviest of them all weighing 145. Most Post-Crescent Want Ads are lightweights, but here's another demonstration of the wallop they pack:

Bolens Asks For Poll on Funds Issue

Wants Governor to Sound Sentiment on Plans to Avoid New Taxes

OUTLINES METHODS

Would Have Mail Ballots Taken From Municipal And County Seats

Madison—(AP)—Senator Harry Bolens (D) Port Washington, proposed today in an exhaustive communication that the legislature direct the governor to go to the voters and obtain a poll on suggested methods of avoiding an additional state tax of more than $22,000,000 for the next biennium.

Methods he offered were: Cancellation by statute of an estimated state deficit of $35,000,000 with the exception of $5,000,000 owed to the teachers retirement fund.

Another readjustment of the percentage of state taxes returned to local units of government.

An increase in the fees of students attending the University of Wisconsin.

A determination whether the people want to continue the size of their government or materially cut it down.

Proposes Balloting
Bolens asked that the poll be conducted by having letters sent out from municipal and county seats where the election polls lists are kept, that the cost be borne by the state emergency fund and that the legislature adjourn from 30 to 60 days until a vote is had.

The veteran Democrat, who recently charged that 159 millionaires had left Wisconsin because of unfavorable tax laws, issued a printed report in which he analyzed the cost of the state university, the teachers colleges, the public school system, state payments to localities and the amount of amounts owed from the state general fund.

The report asked whether another $10 a head should be added through a general sales tax to the $257,376,075 burden now carried by Wisconsin's 1,129,000 employables in state, federal and local taxes. (Plans for a general sales tax were under discussion in administration circles, but have been dropped.)

Cites Deficit
Bolens said the state deficit was built up beginning in 1932 by a "grasshopper" raid on a $19,000,000 surplus then existing, by spending a "fat sum" from the teachers' retirement fund, by "nipping" the highway fund for more than $19,000,000 and by playing "a well-deserved trick" on local units in withholding $9,000,000 from five other funds.

He asserted the state played "Santa Claus" to local governments in the flush days before 1929 and because of "political cowardice" neglected to notify them it had made a destructive bargain and failed "to cut down their allowances and percentages."

Safe Crackers Wreck Office With Blast But Get Little Cash

Dalton, Wis.—(AP)—Sam and Debra Vaughn, owners of the Dalton Lumber company, are just a little tired of having their office robbed, particularly now that they have to make extensive repairs because bungling safe crackers wrecked the place early today in an abortive attempt to blow open the strongbox.

Yeggs have victimized the company four times in two and a half years, twice in the last three months. Accordingly, the Vaughns don't keep much money in the safe overnight.

Fred Winne, reporting for work today, discovered that all five windows in the office had been shattered, a hole torn in the floor and the ceiling plaster knocked down. Although nitroglycerine apparently was used, the blast didn't open the safe. The yeggs had to finish the job with crowbars. A small amount of change rewarded their efforts.

Ruth Marie Rubens Serves 18 Months in Soviet Prison for Entering on False Passport

Madison—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American woman whose long detention in Russia has caused extended United States diplomatic intervention, was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment in court today but was told she would be free tomorrow because she has served all but one day of the sentence.

The sentence was passed in the Moscow city court on a charge that Mrs. Rubens entered soviet Russia on a false passport.

She had disappeared from a Moscow hotel with her husband, known also as Donald Robinson, in December, 1937, and a month later United States embassy officials were permitted to see her in prison.

19-Year-Old Governess Held In Kidnaping of 5-Year-Old Boy; May Face Life Sentence

San Francisco—(AP)—A pretty 19-year-old governess formally was charged with kidnaping today after police moved swiftly but quietly to solve what they said was San Francisco's first kidnaping for ransom in 45 years.

While the press maintained a self-imposed silence, San Francisco police feverishly traced down clues to the whereabouts of the governess who disappeared Wednesday afternoon with 5-year-old Krehe Osborn after assertedly leaving a note demanding $1,600 from the child's mother, Mrs. Mabel Osborn, for his safe return.

Twenty-seven hours after the girl and the child had vanished, police arrested her in a San Jose hotel, 50 miles south of here. They said the boy was with her and unharmed.

The governess told police today her name was Miss Margaret Polly Weil and that she wanted the ransom money "to pay the mortgage on my mother's farm at Nassau, N. Y."

Threatened Son's Life
The child's mother discovered the pair's disappearance and found the asserted ransom note about 1:15 p. m. Wednesday.

The note, which Chief of Police William J. Quinn said was in Miss Weil's writing, warned the mother not to tell the police "if you value your son's life."

But Mrs. Osborn promptly called officers and the hunt began. Newspaper, news services and the radio were sworn to secrecy, and police and federal agents began the task of trailing down the pair.

The note left detailed instructions as to payment of the ransom and a relative of Mrs. Osborn had the $1,600 on his person, ready to make contact when the governess was arrested.

The Osborns are not wealthy. Apparently officers said, the girl hit upon $1,600 as a ransom sum from seeing a deposit book with an $1,800 balance.

Exonerate Woman in Shooting of Prowler

Eau Claire, Wis.—(AP)—A coroner's jury late yesterday exonerated Mrs. Lydia Hotchkiss, 20, in the fatal shooting May 28 of Melvin C. Melby, 46, a boat builder.

The jury held Mrs. Hotchkiss had "fired in defense of her own home against an unknown prowler, and was therefore not guilty."

Mrs. Hotchkiss fired her husband's shotgun through the door of their home on the outskirts of the city when, she said, she was terrified by the attempts of a prowler to enter the house and she was unable to arouse her husband.

She testified yesterday she feared for the safety of her infant child and her 13-year-old sister-in-law. Witnesses said Melby had been in several taverns earlier in the evening.

Talks With King Not Significant, Roosevelt States

Plans Informal Discussion Of World Affairs, He Tells Press

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today he supposed he would discuss international affairs with King George of Britain in an informal manner.

The chief executive remarked that the conversations would not be significant.

Mr. Roosevelt said he would talk with the king just as he would with members of the press. In these days of strenuous world affairs, he said, one could hardly talk to another without mentioning the situation.

"Dressed in light summer trousers, and without a coat, the president described the king and queen as 'very, very delightful people.' He permitted the direct quotation.

Asked about a newspaper story quoting the king as saying it was all right to call him "George," the president smiled and replied he would have to call that another newspaper story.

President Is "Lost"
A reporter asked about his conversation with the king during a sightseeing trip yesterday afternoon. The president said they visited some parts of Rock Creek park he never had seen before and he told the king at one point he was lost.

Asked what impressed the king most, the president said he did not know, but since it was his majesty's first visit he supposed the whole thing must have been very interesting to him.

There was much laughter at the conclusion of the conference when, as questioning became exhausted, two reporters spoke in unison, "Thank you, Mr. President."

Mr. Roosevelt at the outset said the White House was the wrong place for news today. He said he would leave for Hyde Park tonight to spend Sunday with the king and queen and would return to Washington early Monday evening after addressing the graduating class at West Point during that day.

Ammon Appointed as Acting Director of Markets Department

Madison—(AP)—Ralph E. Ammon will continue, at least temporarily, as director of the reorganized department of agriculture and markets.

He was named acting administrative head of the department yesterday at the first meeting of the new supervisory board of seven members appointed by Governor Heil and confirmed by the senate.

Herman Inde, Neenah, president of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, was elected chairman of the board, which is a part-time, policy making body, and John Scott Earle, of Prairie du Chien, was named secretary.

Inde announced the board would hold another meeting, probably within a week, to appoint a permanent director.

Although there are other candidates for the post, which pays a maximum of $6,000 a year, Ammon frequently has been mentioned as a potential choice for reappointment and yesterday received the tacit endorsement of Senator William A. Freehoff (R) Waukesha, chairman of a legislative committee created to investigate the department.

He became director in 1938 when the department was reorganized under the LaFollette administration. At that time a seven man advisory board replaced the old full-time, three man commission and that board gave way to the new one established under the Heil administration.

Winke tested. "As far as I know, no doctor was called," Krall added.

Winke's son, Ward, of Burnett, told of visiting his father and of finding him in poor condition on two occasions.

"I protested to Klink once and he said that dad had 'fallen out of bed,'" Winke testified.

Winke said that when he visited his father shortly before his death.

Landon Continues Cruise After Fall Breaks Two Ribs

Rockland, Maine—(AP)—Alf Landon refused today to let two broken ribs keep him from continuing his leisurely cruise along Maine's rocky coast.

Shrugging off as "nothing very serious" the injuries resulting from a fall aboard the Ketch Blue Moon off here, the 1936 Republican presidential nominee put to sea last night after a brief visit to the Knox county hospital.

There Dr. Freeman F. Brown had X-ray pictures taken which revealed fractures of the sixth and seventh ribs, and tightly strapped the former Kansas governor's left side.

Pierre S. du Pont Transactions Face SEC Investigation

Commission Probing Alleged 'Discrepancies' In Reports

Washington—(AP)—The securities commission announced today it had started to investigate the "facts and circumstances" involved in alleged "discrepancies" reported in transactions in Du Pont common stock by Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the company's board.

The commission said these "discrepancies" had come to light in corrections of Du Pont common stock transactions submitted to the SEC by Du Pont.

The commission's announcement said: "The official summary of transactions and holdings of officers, directors and principal company stockholders published today, includes corrections, submitted by Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, of 20 previous reports of his holdings in the common stock of that company since November, 1934."

The commission said that where as the original report showed substantial net long positions, the corrected reports showed that "throughout the period he owed substantially more shares than he owned."

As of Dec. 31, 1934, he reported he held 32,352 shares, the commission said.

"His corrected report states that on that date he was minus 108,460 shares," the commission said.

Various reports filed in the intervening period showed he held substantial amounts, the commission stated, "while corrected reports showed he was minus substantial amounts."

The commission asserted further that the original report for Feb. 23, 1935, showed holdings of 73,394, while the corrected amount was "minus 26,542."

"In response to inquiries the commission stated it has undertaken to determine the facts and circumstances involved in these discrepancies," the SEC announcement said.

Inspector Reports On Air Line Plans

Says Fox River Valley 'Progressive' but Sees No Urgent Need for Service

Washington—(AP)—A postal inspector, B. D. Sugg of Chicago, who made a survey of the proposed extension of the Northwest Air Lines to cities in Wisconsin, Minn., Iowa and Michigan, said at a civil aeronautics authority hearing today that air-travel service at present provided cities between Milwaukee and Green Bay with about the same service as would be given by the proposed air line.

Sugg testified Escanaba, Marinette and Marquette, Mich., north of Green Bay, would receive slight advantage in faster movement of mail but only on that ready before 1 o'clock p. m.

The witness said cities in the Fox river valley between Milwaukee and Green Bay were "progressive," with population, business and postal receipts increasing. Those north of Green Bay, he said, were in sparsely settled country and were not as progressive as the Wisconsin cities. He said this was due to the decline of the lumber industry.

Union Votes to End Stevens Point Strike

Stevens Point—(AP)—Local 1805, carpenters and joiners union here, has agreed to permit the return of its members to employment at the Lullaby Furniture Corporation.

Members of the union staged a walkout on March 1 and subsequent negotiation failed to bring about an agreement. The plant reopened April 17 without a settlement of the controversy.

CROWDS CHEER

King George Places Wreath on Tomb of Washington

Washington—(AP)—In solemn reverence, King George VI paid homage today to America's foremost shrine, the tomb of George Washington, who led 13 struggling colonies to independence from British rule.

Perhaps more than any other event of the historic two-day visit, the unprecedented but simple ceremony on the grassy slopes of Mount Vernon symbolized the peaceful ties of friendship today between two English speaking peoples who divided on the battlefield in 1776.

While his queen and President, and Mrs. Roosevelt looked on, the king placed a wreath of white lilies, iris and carnations on the marble sarcophagus of the general who 150 years ago drove out the red-coated armies of his ancestor, George III.

The ceremony of respect for the "father of the country" was one of the most dramatic of the royal visit, yet was witnessed by one of the smallest crowds to attend any of the functions of the last two days.

Small Crowd Present
Aside from the official party, only little more than a score of women of the Mount Vernon Ladies association and a few especially invited guests looked on.

The king and the president drove to the tomb from the Mount Vernon dock on the Potomac river in an open car.

Both the king and the president left the car and stood beside the entrance to the tomb. Silently, the party looked on as the English monarch took the wreath, already at hand, and placed it on the tomb. It bore a ribbon of the royal red and blue and a card inscribed "From George R I and Elizabeth R."

On the yacht Potomac, while cruising down the quiet Potomac, the presidential party and the royal guests had luncheon.

The king and queen boarded the Potomac at the navy yard after exchanging cordial greetings with American legislators at a brilliant capital reception.

Standing in the huge, high-domed capitol rotunda, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth had a smile and royal hand-shake for the 400-odd senators and representatives crowded into the chamber.

When it was over, Chairman Pittman of the reception committee said the king expressed his appreciation to congress in these words: "Her majesty and I are unable to express our appreciation of the universal courtesy, and friendship, we have received."

The monarchs stood less than 100 yards from the spot where victorious British troops held a mock legislative session in the house chamber 125 years ago and then sacked and burned the capitol.

Seventy-year-old Senator Borah (R-Idaho), dean of the senate, was the first other than the reception committee, to meet the king and queen after they were escorted inside by a reception committee headed by Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Talks With Pittman
The king and queen first were greeted at the door of the rotunda by Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead.

King George chatted with Pittman until the reception got under way.

Without on the capitol plaza, blazing under a hot sun, thousands cheered the arrival of the royal visitors. Although the top was up on the car in which they rode, the queen carried the parasol which had shielded her from the sun during yesterday's tumultuous reception.

Scores of women who waited in the reserved section in front of the capitol also had brought parasols to protect them from the scorching sun, but police forced them to put these away to permit those behind to see the royal arrival.

Greet War Veterans
At the British embassy a few minutes earlier, American war veterans who once fought for the British empire won special greeting from their majesties. The king stopped.

Fire Levels Tavern, Grocery at Hustler

Hustler, Wis.—(AP)—Fire destroyed the A. J. Piel grocery store and the Jack Maloney tavern today.

The loss was estimated at between $13,000 and $14,000.

The village postoffice was situated in the grocery store, the contents of which were destroyed.

Firemen also were unable to save anything in the tavern.

The Hustler, New Lisbon and Camp Douglas fire departments assisted in fighting the blaze, the cause of which was not determined at once.

Senator Blames Bureaucracy for Mounting Costs

Clark Says Reorganization Needed Along Economy Lines

Milwaukee—(AP)—Senator Bennett Clark (D-Mo.) asserted last night that no issue before the nation today is more important than government reorganization along economy lines.

The Missouriian, a member of the senate finance committee, addressed more than 800 attending the closing banquet of the 45th convention of the Wisconsin Bankers' association.

Clark said the nation is laboring under the most tremendous load of taxes ever seen, and that still more taxation must come to stave off repudiation of debts.

He attacked the "mushrooming bureaucratic system" as the cause for such a state of affairs, and described the average Washington bureau as a "flock of officials who come on payrolls week continually to increase the scope, appropriations, and personnel of their institution."

"No Cooperation" "There is by no means any cooperation coordination between the bureaus," Clark charged. "Instead, jealousies, feuds and strife arise over the struggle for appropriation monies, with the forces of administrators, officers and coordinators all setting up agitation for further extension of their particular agency, and generally getting it."

Clark declared that once a bureau was established, it was almost impossible to break it up. "This bureaucracy is apart from presidents," he said. "Presidents often find it difficult to check their growing force. They are autocratic, resist all development, and may eventually break down democracy."

He disclosed that the resettlement administration spent $300,000,000 in one year, with $2,000,000 alone going for telephone and telegraph tolls.

Uniform System Clark advocated a uniform system of cost accounting for all governmental units, and abolition of the traditional lobbying.

Samuel N. Fickard of Neenah, retiring president of the bankers' association, was elected a member of the nominating committee for the 1939 national convention at Seattle. W. J. Tesch of Merrill, new state president, was named alternate. Actions were by state members of the American Bankers' association.

Mar Rohn Sr., of Watertown, was re-elected state president. Charles Christiansen, Milwaukee, was elected for the state bank division. E. M. Van Loe, Beloit, was re-elected for the savings division, and George Greeley, Oshkosh, was elected state vice president for the trust division.

Clark was elected a member of the executive council of the American Bankers' association in Wisconsin. Fickard was named state vice president of the group.

Lightning Sets Fire to Structure on Bernard Nelson Farm

Leeman—During an electrical storm here Wednesday forenoon a barn on the Bernard Nelson farm on Highway 156 was struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

A team of horses and a few pieces of farm machinery were taken from the building, an old structure. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

It is doubtful if Mr. Nelson will rebuild. He has retired from farming and has purchased a home in Galesburg where he resides. Arthur Breitzman is a renter on the place.

A radio in the Breitzman home was struck by a bolt of lightning during the storm.

Milk Pool Is Holding Convention at Wausau

A number of Outagamie county farmers and their wives are attending the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool 2-day convention which opened yesterday at Wausau.

Pheasants Causing Trouble at Airport

Milwaukee—(AP)—Add to the hazards of aviation: Pheasants. Bud Fisher was taking off with his small plane yesterday. Two feet in the air there was a thud and a crackle, and the plane came down with a splintered propeller. Nearby was a dead pheasant.

Said Bud: "That's a darned expensive pheasant. That prop cost $29.75. It's getting to be quite a problem out here (at Curtiss-Wright airport). This is the third or fourth time a pheasant has busted a prop on somebody's ship recently."

It may be necessary, Bud opined, to put in claims against the state.

Rulers Receive Legislators in Capitol Rotunda

ped and chatted with A. E. Graham of Washington, formerly of Indianapolis, who lost a leg with Canadian troops at Amiens in 1918.

The veteran with the highest British decoration among those gathered in the sunlit embassy garden to meet the king and queen was Dr. Bellenden Seymour Hutcheson of Cairo, Ill. He received the Victoria cross for service as medical officer with the 75th Canadian battalion during the World war.

About a quarter-hour before the sovereigns were due to greet the legislators, members of the house filed into the rotunda.

Many in Business Suits Mostly middle-aged men in business suits of dark or white, and formal morning attire, they stood in a special enclosure of purple plush ropes.

Representative Rogers (R-Mass.) wearing a white, summer dress and wearing a corsage of orchids, was the first woman member to arrive.

Representative Sumner (R-Ill.) wore a hat. Her white sailor matched the rest of the furnishings for crepe dress of dubonet with white polka dots.

When the rulers appeared in the big, circular chamber, the assembled legislators broke into spirited applause.

The couple passed along a route marked out by purple plush rope and took their positions in the receiving line. Senators and representatives waiting to greet them were penned into separate groups behind other plush ropes to the center of the rotunda.

Pittman stood at the king's left to introduce the senators to the British monarchs. The queen, seemingly really to enjoy the occasion, stood at the king's right. Next, and chatting frequently with her, was Gardner in his infrequently used formal morning attire.

When the senate line had passed, house members stepped forward and were introduced.

Representatives Presented Representative Mansfield (D-Texas) in the wheel chair he has used for years was the first house member to greet the monarchs. A ripple of applause burst forth as he shook hands with both the queen leaning over to add a word of greeting.

Representative Miller (R-Conn.), who lost both legs in the World war, was wheeled to the receiving line and chatted with both the king and queen.

Representative Mitchell (D-Ill.), the only Negro in congress, made a deep bow to each of their majesties.

When the last member had been presented, the couple walked down the stone stairway to the capitol plaza.

Re-entering their car, the king and queen drove to the navy yard to board the president Roosevelt's yacht, Potomac, for a cruise and luncheon en route to Mount Vernon.

THE PRESIDENT MEETS A QUEEN This unusual expression picture of President Roosevelt and Queen Elizabeth was made as they met in Union station in Washington on arrival of the British monarchs from Canada. Gantter Says Budget Too High; Wants It Reduced by 20 Per Cent

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Assemblyman William J. Gantter of the second Outagamie county district has been thinking things over. He had about decided today that he and his Republican colleagues in the legislature made a grievous mistake when they passed the biennial budget bill calling for expenditures of $67,000,000.

The Republican newcomer from Kaukauna, who is usually quiet and unobtrusive, startled the other G. O. P. members of the legislature this week when he expressed himself on the subject of the regular caucus, and in the presence of Governor Julius P. Heil, who the next morning signed into law the budget measure.

Today Gantter reported that he is working on a bill which would recall and repeal the original budget, and would substitute a straight 20 per cent cut in all state appropriations, salaries, materials, rent, supplies, everything.

Gantter said he got the idea after the administration's revenue bill was submitted to the party members of the legislature this week. The bill, based on the expectation that final total expenses will amount to almost $73,000,000, provided for the collection of $27,000,000 extra in state taxes.

That was too much, Gantter concluded. Better to cut expenses; then the new taxes would not be necessary.

It was not immediately apparent what the reaction of Republican house leaders to the Gantter plan was, although he said that he had discussed it with the governor's office, Speaker Vernon Thomson of the assembly, and Mark Catlin of Appleton, one of the assembly floorleaders.

Nor would he comment on the experience of Assemblyman Julius Spearbreaker of Clintonville, an angler who retired from the legislature during the assembly debate on the budget bill proposed an amendment providing for a 20 per cent reduction in all appropriations. Spearbreaker got only a handful of votes from the administration side of the house. And Gantter was not among the handful.

the extent and depth of that friendship. The president, reserving the morning for official duties, arranged to meet the visiting rulers and Mrs. Roosevelt at the Washington Navy Yard for a yacht trip down the Potomac to Mount Vernon, George Washington estate.

On returning to the White House in late afternoon, the king and queen were allotted a brief respite from their ceremonial rounds to prepare for their turn as dinner hosts. At 8 o'clock p. m. they will entertain the President and Mrs. Roosevelt at the British embassy. Shortly before midnight the visitors will leave for New York.

The royal couple, having taken a more lengthy sightseeing tour than they had planned after yesterday's dazzling parade of welcome, were 15 minutes later at the embassy garden party but to the delight of the 1,400 guests they remained for an hour.

Catlin Bill Would Cut State's Share Of Teachers' Fund

Payments to Pension Fund Would be Reduced If Measure Is Adopted

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Important changes in the public school teachers' pension fund are contained in a bill which was being drawn in the capitol today.

To be sponsored by Assemblyman Mark Catlin of Appleton, a leading Republican legislator, the measure was understood to have the administration's backing as an economy measure, although Catlin would not say whether it will be an administrative bill.

An important change contemplated is a provision that a teacher must be a "professional teacher" before he can take advantage of the state credits which match the teachers' contributions to the retirement fund.

The bill would provide that a teacher must teach for 20 consecutive years before he can collect the state credits to his account. At present the teacher-member of the fund owns the state contributions to his account within a year after he is 25 years of age.

Another section of the proposed new enactment would abolish the annual $25 bonus which the state and county pays to each account in addition to its contributions matching the teachers' payments.

That abolition would save $435,000 a year for the state, Catlin said.

Another Saving A third new provision would extend the amortization period of the original payments to the fund—it was started with $7,000,000 in 1922—from 41 to 71 years. The state now pays $280,000 a year. This would be cut to $150,000 a year.

It was said that the first two changes would place the teachers' fund on the same basis as other pension systems, and particularly other public employee retirement systems. The proposed requirements that a teacher must teach for 20 years—exceptions are provided for sickness and disability—would mean that the teacher who marries or retires from teaching before he has served for that period of time will forfeit the state payments to his account. He will be entitled to withdraw only the contributions from his own earnings.

Catlin said it would be impossible to estimate how much would be saved by the latter provision, but said it would be considerable. The economies resulting from the three changes proposed, he explained, could be used by the Heil and succeeded administrations to retire the state's debt to the fund, which now aggregates $4,000,000.

Payments Off The state's payments to the fund are exacted from the taxpayers through the teachers' surtax on incomes. During recent years that revenue—like all state revenue—has dropped far below previous years, with the result that a deficiency has accumulated since 1932.

The teachers' retirement fund now counts in its membership 17,000 working teachers in Wisconsin, but it carries over 23,000 accounts, by reason of the fact that teachers who retired before they are eligible to withdraw from the fund are still being carried on the books. The fund on July 1 is expected to have assets amounting to $43,000,000, which Catlin and others have maintained is high enough to insure complete stability even if the provisions of the pension system are tightened somewhat.

A second alarm was answered by firemen at 9:15 last night when an outboard motor burst into flames in the garage at the home of Merle Bro, 1209 N. Clark street. New Report Forms To Provide More Accident Details

Blanks Issued to Traffic Officers by State Highway Commission

State safety workers want to know more about automobile accidents that occur during 1939 and 1940. The state highway commission is replacing present accident report forms with a new and more detailed report blank. The new blanks have been prepared, based on similar report forms used by the National Safety council and many other states, but they will not be put into general use in Wisconsin until all of the old forms have been used up. The forms being used at present were prepared in 1935.

Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad and Sergeant Carl Radtke, head of the traffic department of the police department have received copies of the new accident report sheet.

Although motorists will not have to fill out the more detailed reports on accidents until some future time, the state highway commission is urging traffic officers to prepare their own reports on these new blanks, and send copies to the state highway department for comparison with the reports which the present law requires the drivers to file with the commission.

Much new information, found helpful in other states in accident reduction campaigns, will be included on the new forms.

Proposes Tax on Utilities to Pay For Radio Station

Plan for Proposed State 'Super' System Offered at Hearing

Madison—(AP)—A tax upon electrical utilities of 2 cents per customer per month to raise $170,000 for maintaining and operating a proposed state "super" radio station was suggested yesterday by Professor Edward Bennett of the University of Wisconsin.

The plan was presented before the joint finance committee, hearing arguments on an assembly bill which would appropriate $100,000 for construction of the station, $126,000 annually for administration, and $9,800 to be allotted to the attorney general to assist prosecution of the petition to obtain federal sanction of a "clear channel" for day and night broadcasting.

Professor Bennett, chairman of the university electrical engineering department, and a member of the university radio committee, estimated that utilities received $1,200,000 annually for energy sold to 500,000 Wisconsin families for operating their radio sets, an average of $2.40 per family.

Customers Would Pay He admitted that "in the end" customers would bear the 24 cent annual levy, but maintained there would be few complaints.

"The cost of maintaining and operating the prospective clear channel communication highway," Bennett said, "is startlingly small when compared with the cost of maintaining the transportation highways of the state. Compared to the 2-cent charge, each of the 857,000 auto owners averages $45.60 per auto license issued, or 230 times as much."

Favorable statements previously made before the assembly education committee were repeated by representatives of the Wisconsin Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Wisconsin Education association, the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, and the state vocational board.

Regional channels are held by the stations of the state—WHA at Madison and WBL at Stevens Point. An application to replace the two with the wave length held by a Chicago station of the National Broadcasting company is pending before the federal communications commission.

Over 65 Bicycles are Registered Thursday At Hall at Kimberly

Kimberly — More than sixty-five bicycles were registered Thursday morning at the village hall when Sergeant Carl Radtke of the Appleton police department addressed Kimberly bicycle riders on the village ordinance pertaining to bicycles. P. A. Locksmeider was the first to register.

Chief of Police John Bernardy announced that the registration will continue and the bicycle office at the village will again be open at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Sergeant Radtke outlined the village ordinance to a large group of riders and explained the rules and regulations and said that it is unlawful to attach wagons, trailers or sleighs to a bicycle as they may loosen and cause accidents.

The sergeant said that from one-half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise, bicycles must be lighted. He said that riders must stop at all arterial signs which means not to merely slow down, but to bring the wheel to a standstill. All stop and go signs must be obeyed.

The speaker requested all bicycle owners to spend from 5 to 10 minutes each Saturday morning, inspecting their bikes for any defects. In this way, the sergeant said, riders could keep their bicycles in safe mechanical condition. Anyone violating the ordinance will be given a fine by Chief of Police John Bernardy and must appear in the bicycle court.

Klubs Score Win Over CYO Squad

Overcome Early Lead to Take Decision in City League Tilt

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna Klubs, defending city champions, overcame a 2-run deficit last night to defeat the CYO softball team in a City league contest. Tonight the Mankosky Coals and Ritz Tavern outfits will clash.

Sherman Powers allowed the CYO batters but 3 hits, striking out 4 and walking 2. His opponent, Phelan Fernal, was nicked for six safeties, struck out none and issued 1 pass. Jack Winn, Klub catcher, was the only player with two hits, both singles.

The losers jumped off to a 2-run lead in the first inning on three hits and a walk. With one away Gene Peranteau's single, Jack Hatchell's walk and Carl Giordana's one baser filled the sacks. Bob Promer sent Peranteau and Hatchell across with a single to left. Powers held the CYO team hitless the rest of the game.

The Klubs broke into the run column in the third inning. Powers doubled to left and came home as the return throw went through the infield. In the fifth Winn singled and Kemp reached first on Phelan's wild throw to first. The players advanced a base on Koehn's grounder and scored on George Hatchell's single. Ed Eiting homered for the fourth Klub tally in the sixth.

Washington Writer Outlines Roosevelt Political Picture

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Here is the Roosevelt political picture which I outline with complete confidence: First, Mr. Roosevelt is keeping himself footloose with regard to a third term candidacy so that he can move either way, depending upon developments in the coming months. He is likely to run but he is reserving final decision. As to the announcement of his intentions, he will decide the timing. No announcement is imminent.

Second, Mr. Roosevelt is primarily concerned now with control of the national convention. He is asking state Democratic leaders to select delegations of unquestioned loyalty to the administration. There will be no objection to such delegations endorsing favorite sons who are New Dealers but the advice is to avoid commitments to conservative Democratic candidates.

Third, it is desired that the political management of this activity be vested in Postmaster General Farley. This is considered to be of vital importance. Tommy Corcoran has shown signs of undertaking political activities but it is realized within the Roosevelt circle that this would be fatal. His talents in certain circles, and his effective work on behalf of New Deal legislation and personnel placement are recognized and his services in this field will continue to be in demand. Campaign politics is another matter. His management of the purge campaign was a demonstrated failure. The call is for Mr. Farley, an acknowledged political craftsman. It is expected—or certainly hoped—that he will undertake this work, with the amateur New Dealer interfering.

Fourth, it is expected that the Roosevelt administration will be in many parts of the country, even as far away as Oregon. It is realized in the administration that attention to mechanical preliminaries in setting up state delegations has been lagging and that activity should be pushed immediately. The fact is that the anti-Roosevelt forces have got off to a head-start in organization activity.

Roosevelt Will Fight to Keep Party Imprint

The dominating fact in the Democratic situation is that Mr. Roosevelt is determined—and with Roosevelt that's something—to see the Democratic party go on down through the years as the vehicle of liberal political action. He will fight with every ounce of his resourceful strength to prevent a swing back toward a conservative position such as occurred after Wilson.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt runs or not, he will insist upon the party going forward as a liberal party. That means a platform which will trim any nomination of a real liberal as a candidate. He is in no mood to make concessions "to hold the party together." He regards 1940 as a critical campaign and if it means a nasty fight, he is ready for it. The tone of his recent aggressive speech to the National Retail Federation is a tipoff.

No amount of wishful thinking.

Some of the intimate and influential persons in the Roosevelt circle hope to bring about a correction of that situation in the near future. They have been much impressed by the loyalty which General Farley has shown on his recent trip, basing this on private reports which have come back from political leaders with whom he has talked. There is a decided feeling on the part of some very close to Mr. Roosevelt that General Farley has been something of a victim of palace politics.

The administration has become concerned over the matter of convention delegates at this early date partly because of the activity for Vice-President Garner. He sits on his chair in the senate and says nothing, but reports reaching the administration indicate well-financed activities for delegates are

Women Foresters Meet At Little Chute Hall

Little Chute—Twenty-five members were present at the regular meeting of the members of the Women's, Catholic Order of Foresters at the Forester hall, Wednesday evening. After the business session cards were played and prizes at schafkopf were awarded Mrs. Alphonse Coenen and Mrs. Raymond Jansen and the winners atummy and bridge were Mrs. Martin Cloudeans and Mrs. Frank Weyenberg. At the next meeting, which will be held June 21, the card series will end and the grand prizes will be awarded.

Miss Irene Peerenboom entertained at her home Wednesday afternoon in observance of her birthday anniversary. Games provided amusement and a lunch was served. The guests were Misses Grace Klisdonk, Joan Van Hoof, Jerry Vande Hei, Carolyn Van Lankvelt, Muriel Pontius, Carol Jansen, Joan Vander Wylst, Thesesa Boots and Mary Lous Peerenboom.

or ballyhooing of Vice President Garner by anti-Roosevelt Democrats and Republicans, will divert President Roosevelt—whether he runs or not—from making a fight to keep the imprint of the New Deal on the Democratic party. All consideration of 1940 might as well start from that point, because there is no getting away from it.

AUNT JENNY SAYS: DOES Spry GIVE GOOD CAKE? SAY, YOU JUST READ THESE LETTERS FROM FOLKS THAT USE IT!

—there's only room to print these two but I've HUNDREDS more like 'em...

Mrs. Alice O. Kellow, Milwaukee, Wis., says: "I wish you could see the Devil's Food Cake I made with Spry. It was wonderful. I have never used anything but an expensive shortening for cake, but from now on—me for Spry!"

Mrs. W. W. Jackson, Mexico, Mo., says: "I was old-fashioned enough to believe nothing could take the place of expensive shortening in making cake until a friend introduced me to Spry. Now I use Spry for all my cakes."

Spry cakes quickly mixed, says famous home-making expert

"Spry's so marvelous creamy it mixes like magic," declares Mary Ann Kidd. "Yet this pure, all-vegetable shortening costs so little that you can use it for all your cooking—and what a difference you'll see! You'll find that baking and frying the Spry way means light, delicate cakes—tender, flaky pastry—crisp, tasty fried foods (digestible, too!)."

Be SURE to use Spry for pastry and frying, too

foods are extra delicious—so digestible

WHEN you bake and fry the Spry way, what tender, flaky pastry you get... what crispy, delicate-tasting fried foods... so digestible that even a child can eat them! Serve them to your family often. They'll shout for more.

Spry is a joy to use. Cuts into your flour so easily when you make pastry. Mixes with other ingredients so quickly. That's because it's marvelously creamy. Fries without smoke. Get Spry today. Get the big 3-lb. can. You save money and Spry stays fresh and sweet. Use for all baking and frying. And be sure to make this Spice Layer Cake soon! Your family will love it.

The new, purer ALL-VEGETABLE SHORTENING—TRIPLE-CREAMED!

TRY AUNT JENNY'S SPICE LAYER CAKE

3/4 cup Spry	1 cup brown sugar, finely packed
1 teaspoon salt	2 cups unbleached
1 teaspoon cinnamon	2 1/2 cups sifted flour (cake flour preferred)
1 teaspoon cloves	2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon allspice	1/2 teaspoon soda
3/4 teaspoon nutmeg	1 cup sour milk

Combine Spry, salt and spices. Add brown sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. (Cake-mixing goes so quickly and easily with triple-creamed Spry, women say.) Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Sift flour, baking powder, and soda together 3 times. Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, beating after each addition until smooth.

Pour batter into two 9-inch layer pans greased with Spry. Bake in moderately hot oven (325° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Sprinkle Coffee Raisin Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. The rich, fruity flavor of this frosting blends marvelously with the fragrant spice layers. Notice the fine grain this Spry cake has—how long it stays fresh! But remember, use Spry in this recipe and be sure of best results!

COFFEE RAISIN FROSTING

2 tablespoons Spry	3 tablespoons strong hot coffee beverage
2 tablespoons butter	2 tablespoons cream, scalded
1/4 teaspoon salt	1/2 cup ground seeded raisins
3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Combine Spry, butter and salt and blend. Beat in 1/4 cup sugar. Add coffee, alternately with remaining sugar, beating well after each addition. Add hot cream and beat well. Add raisins and mix well. Makes enough to cover tops and sides of two 9-inch cakes.

Lawrence College Commencement Week Opens With Concert

Lawrence alumni began gathering in the city today. Lawrence students capped a bit as exams ended, and 1939 Lawrence graduates awaited their final college gesture, commencement on Monday.

The college commencement week opened officially last night with the annual concert of the Lawrence College Symphony orchestra at Memorial chapel. The annual meeting of the board of trustees was scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning at Riverview Country club.

The Phi Beta Kappa breakfast will be held at 8:30 tomorrow morning in Russell Sage hall and the annual meeting of the officers and directors of the alumni association at 11 o'clock at the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Alumni of the college will meet for their annual picnic on the south campus at 12:45 tomorrow afternoon, going from there to the institution where the alumni college opens at 2:30.

Dr. Theodore Cloak, associate professor of speech and dramatics at the college, will be the first speaker at the alumni college, discussing "Modern Trends in the Theater." Dr. William P. Gilbert, assistant professor of physics, will talk on "Scientific Discoveries of 1938."

Fraternity and sorority reunions and anniversary dinners will be held Saturday evening.

The class of 1914 will convene at Riverview Country club, the class of 1929 at Copper Kettle, and the class of 1934 at Butte des Morts Golf club.

Bishop J. Ralph Magee of the Methodist church will speak at Baccalaureate services at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at Memorial chapel. The president's reception will be held at 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

Lawrence graduates, about 109 in all, will receive their diplomas, and honorary degrees will be announced at commencement exercises at 10 o'clock Monday morning in Memorial chapel. Dean George Clarke Seltzer of University of Wisconsin will be the speaker.

177 Youngsters are Entered in Library Reading Competition

Wesley Bloch is leading the "Reading Around the Clock" contest being conducted by the children's department at the Appleton Public library.

More than 177 youngsters have entered the contest which will be carried on throughout the summer and will end the day on Sept. 3. Fifty-five children have received paper clocks for reading the initial three books required.

Sally Schaefer was the first to receive a clock. Joyce Nabbefeld was second, and Carol Nabbefeld was third. Joyce Nabbefeld and Harvey Manuel were the first girl and boy to receive a hand on the clock showing they had read eight books.

Pastor of Zion Lutheran Church Will be Feted on 50th Anniversary of Ordination

The Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, who is believed to be the only pastor in the synod to serve one congregation nearly half a century, will be honored by his congregation and neighboring ministers Sunday in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the Lutheran ministry.

The Rev. Marth served Christus congregation at Clintonville for one year following his ordination, and since then has been at Zion church. Plans for celebrating the event, which were inaugurated in March by Zion Lutheran Brotherhood and immediately supported by the women's organizations and the congregation at large, call for a double morning service at 9:30 Sunday morning with the Rev. K. A. Hoessel of Milwaukee, district president of Wisconsin district of the American Lutheran church, preaching the English sermon, and the Rev. E. F. C. Stubenvoll of Clintonville speaking in German. The hymns for the festive service will appear in leaflet form, thus eliminating the need for hymn books. Sunday school will take place at 8:30.

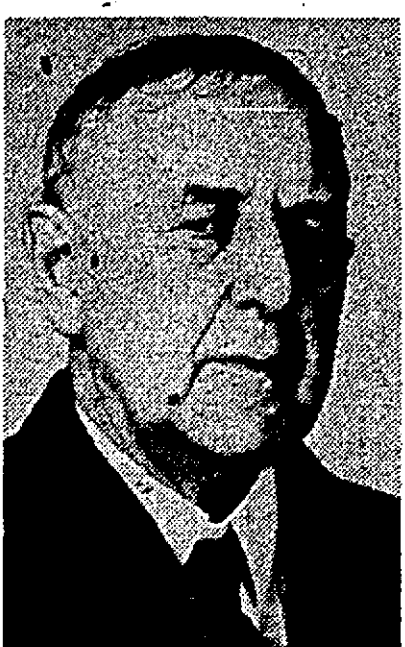

In the afternoon the congregation of Zion as well as friends of the Rev. Marth will join in holding a reception at 2 o'clock in the auditorium of Zion parish school. Among the pastors from neighboring cities who have announced their intention of being present are the Rev. H. Becker, Fond du Lac; the Rev. H. Cronrath, the Rev. E. A. Koch, Oshkosh; the Rev. K. A. Hoessel, Milwaukee; the Rev. H. Pilger, Ripon; and the Rev. E. F. C. Stubenvoll.

Following the reception Zion Lutheran Ladies society and Zion Lutheran Mission society will serve a banquet from 4:30 to 7 o'clock in the school dining room. Tickets for the banquet are being sold by members of the two women's groups and by the Brotherhood.

The Rev. Theodore Marth was born in Schleswig-Holstein, Germany, the son of a teacher and organist, C. F. Marth and Anna Schue-man Marth. After his graduation from the elementary school in his home town, he entered the gymnasium, an educational institution on a par with the colleges in the United States, where he received a general education. He came to the United States as a young man, and for the first six months he visited his brother in the state of Utah. From there he went to Mexico City, Mexico, to visit another brother, and stayed there nine months, returning to this country at the end of that time.

Ordnained in 1883 In the fall of 1888 he entered the theological seminary at Capital university, Columbus, Ohio, graduating from that institution in June, 1890. He accepted a call from Christus congregation at Clintonville, was ordained and immediately came to Clintonville where his work in the ministry began.

A year later he received two calls from Zion congregation in Appleton. Having refused the first, he accepted the urging of the president of the Wisconsin district, the Rev. A. H. Allward, and accepted the second call. He was installed as pastor of the Appleton church June 15, 1890.

WILL BE HONORED

Fifty years in the ministry, forty-nine of which were spent in serving Zion Lutheran church, is the achievement of the Rev. Theodore Marth, above. His congregation and neighboring ministers will gather Sunday for a double service at 9:30 Sunday morning at the church, a reception in the afternoon and banquet in the evening. WISCONSIN TO INCREASE MANY TAXES

If you first concede that Wisconsin must raise many millions more revenue you must next accept the proposition that the Heil proposal as recently modified makes a great effort to equalize the burden.

We think Mr. Heil should be commended further by the example he set the nation in declining to ride roughshod over the legislature or to force a "must" program by substituting instead a conference of the Republican members of the legislature.

This is diametrically opposed to the Roosevelt tradition. Mr. Roosevelt selects the members of his conferences. The people choose the members of Mr. Heil's conference. Mr. Roosevelt's conferences are packed with those whose opinions are known in advance or who can be depended upon to obey orders like bowing automatons. Whatever may be said about the personnel at Mr. Heil's conference they were at least duly chosen as provided by law.

Nevertheless it is evident that these increasing taxes must decrease business. Perhaps they won't be a great deterrent. We certainly hope not. But they are not going to help drum up commercial or industrial activity.

Adding another tax on cigarettes won't increase the workers in cigarette factories nor the employees in tobacco shops. Boosting the price of beer is not likely to increase the payroll at breweries or taverns. Adding to the cost of the simple amusements of the people will not make for added employment lists anywhere. Increasing the purchase price of new automobiles by about two million dollars a year will not stimulate that business which has been so pivotal in America for a generation.

Mr. Heil's excuse is that he finds the finances of Wisconsin in wretched shape. In due time we will all come to discuss that fact and its many aspects.

The people may safely put to one side the decision concerning responsibility for the condition in which the state finances are found, and until, in the course of another campaign, both sides are fairly represented upon the stump. But they cannot put aside the fact that the higher taxes climb the more deadening is likely to be their effect, a condition that becomes increasingly evident as the pyramid of taxes meets the clouds. It is better to balance the budget than to let it run wild but it is a surer policy not to increase disbursements in any particular.

In the submitted proposal the effort to spread the taxes is evident from the lessening of the amount of dividends to be received by stockholders, the lessening of the exemption of all income taxpayers, the retention of the 60 per cent surtax on income taxpayers, to the sales taxes on things designated as luxuries.

But in spite of an evident purpose to be fair other ghosts arise besides those that tend to prevent consumption and therefore production. The bootlegger appears on the horizon. And he is quite likely to stay there. In fact he will consider the increased tax upon intoxicants as a direct invitation for him to go to work. And when a bootlegger can be on relief and at the same time collect up the alley he is in clover.

NATIONAL FLAG WEEK

Joining in the nation-wide movement to stimulate national unity—a unity of citizenship free from class hatreds—Appleton patriotic organizations are urging all citizens to participate in National Flag week, from June 8 to 14, by displaying the national emblem, and by attending the services and ceremonies arranged for observance of the week.

The patriotic revival which Flag Week symbolizes is occasioned by the challenge hurled by subversive forces, seeking by propaganda and espionage, to undermine American national ideals. Millions of dollars are being spent by these forces to lead our citizens away from the American way, to preach foreign doctrines, to instill class and racial hatreds.

Flag week is a reminder to Americans that they are fortunate indeed to be enjoying protection in the freedom of speech, of assembly, of religion and of press, and it also is a reminder that eternal vigilance is the price of this protection.

So long as we Americans keep alive in our hearts the ideals upon which this country was founded, these liberties are in no danger. The trouble, however, is that we are much inclined to take too much for granted, to coast along without thinking much about these matters. We permit our vigilance to become lax, thus enabling the enemies of the American way to gain a foothold.

National Flag Week is a reminder of our obligations to ourselves. Every person who calls himself American ought to actively participate in this week by displaying the national emblem, and renewing in his heart his pledge of allegiance to the ideals which it symbolizes.

MOSCOW'S WORD IS GOOD!

There is one way in which Moscow follows Holy Writ in headlong fashion. It never lets the right hand know about tricks its left hand is pulling off.

A House Committee finds from the testimony of American Reds sent to Moscow as part of a group of a hundred that the nation that pretended and promised great affection for America ran a college to teach our Reds the ins and outs of street fighting, barricading, the destruction of tanks, and all the details of those extensive plans whereby water, gas, electricity, the distribution of food and everything else are paralyzed by a few neat strokes on the day that the big bell rings for the revolution.

Just about the time this group of 100 Americans who were to be brigadier generals for the coup d'etat arrive in Moscow Mr. Browder was extending the hand of fellowship to the churches in America telling them there was no good reason for dispute and suspicion because the Reds were committed to a policy of peace, love, conciliation and friendship. Perhaps the explanation will be that these experts in street fighting were only being trained to resist attacks by churchmen upon workers. The time approaches when explanations or excuses descend to the level of the whimsical, when the hungry wolf puts his paw gently upon the rabbit and the robin destroys the eagle.

It may be but happenstance that we first read a page from the Red witch book and then one from the Fascist Dark Secrets but the information, from whatever source, is both informative and instructive.

UNDERFERD CHILDREN AND OVERFERD WORDS

Before the Workers Alliance Mrs. Roosevelt said she is not so concerned over the piling debt of America as she is over its "underferd children."

Can it be after spending all these billions that we still have underferd children? Is the nation operated in such an incompetent and reckless manner that although it buys generously of everything someone runs away with the goods before it can get them to the children? Who is to blame for this, Hoover?

Looking upon the nation "by and large" we probably do not exaggerate when we say that "the underferd children" of this country get more and better food than millionaires were receiving when Mrs. Roosevelt was born; that they get as much and better made clothing; that they get by far more skillful medical treatment; that they are privileged even to trade some of their provisions for a jalopy and four America's marvelous road system; and that, as a final touch of whipped cream, they get the first Lady of the Land to spill salty tears upon their miserable condition.

But do not blame Mrs. Roosevelt. She is a part of a certain imperial conception. And she is employing no more pathos or bathos upon the approaching campaign than is considered necessary to arouse the flagging spirits of those who have been whipped into action so many times they may be getting weary.

THE NEVER FORGOTTEN QUESTION

Back in 1849 a five-year-old child became separated from his parents during a firemen's parade in New York City. He never learned who his parents were and he soon forgot his real name if he ever knew it.

At the kindly orphanage where the police finally took him he became known as Ben Fritman, and from an Indiana farm where he was working in 1862 he left to march with that great Union army in its surging backward and forward as it struggled with the serpent of secession.

Today Ben Fritman at 95 still asks plaintively and appealingly who he is. He thinks his parents were German because Germans predominated in that great wave of immigration that followed the 1848 Revolution, and faintly in his memory is a foreign tongue and his own inability to speak English with the children of his age.

While Mr. Fritman by living the good and faithful life has brought honor to the name he bears, and enriched America with his worthy life he exemplifies that unquenchable craving that men have concerning their antecedents. Even as night begins to close in upon him forever he employed Memorial Day with the few veterans of the Civil War who are so prominently in the limelight to see if someone else's memory could not be aroused and he directed to records of his true identity.

His insatiable questioning and curiosity, which is unnatural in this respect, strongly indicates the existence of a human instinct for individualism, and may help to explain why the nation that tries to pattern everyone upon a certain model is doomed to disappointment at the direction of a much higher authority than mankind.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—I have just ridden behind the chauffeur of the Man who Drove the Car for Mr. Morgan. (Sounds like that song, "Shake the Hand that Held the Hand of the Most Beautiful Girl in the World.")

John J. Anthony, the "Good Will" man to whom thousands of people appeal for help in domestic problems, was responsible. We were to ride uptown, and he suggested we take a particular cab which was parked near the Murray Hill Hospital. "It may make an item for you," he remarked.

We got in the cab. The first thing I noticed was a neat placard tacked on the back of the driver's seat. It said: "Your driver, Siegfried Blum, was chauffeur for the late J. P. Morgan. So I begin to prod Mr. Blum. His bald head was covered with a cap. He spoke with a heavy Austrian accent.

I drove for Mr. Morgan for four years—from August, 1909, until 1912. After he died I drove for his daughter, Mrs. William Pierson Hamilton, and then I quit to drive a cab."

We asked him what was Mr. Morgan's greatest demand upon his chauffeur. "Speed," replied Herr Blum. "I never could drive fast enough to satisfy him. My record from the Morgan house at Madison Avenue and 37th Street to the House of Morgan on Wall Street was 16 minutes. Sometimes I would be held up by traffic, and this enraged Mr. Morgan. 'Drive up on the sidewalk!' he would yell, and drive up on the sidewalk I did."

"Didn't the cops ever give you a ticket?" I asked. "Listen," said Herr Blum. "If you were a cop, would you arrest J. P. Morgan?"

I stammered something that sounded like "Well, then," said Herr Blum, "why do you want someone else to do it?"

J. P. Morgan owned two cars, both French, and each worth $12,000, Blum said. There were other cars, but these were the ones he kept in his town garage.

"Every morning when it was time for me to pick up the boss, I would call Belle Greene, the keeper of the Morgan Library," Blum went on. "She then would tell me which one of the seven exits from his Madison Avenue castle Mr. Morgan would use. He never emerged from the same exit two days in succession. It got to be a game with me. Every day I would try to guess which door he would use. I didn't go so good."

"It wasn't that Mr. Morgan was afraid. That man wasn't scared of anything. He was merely cautious and smart."

"Every Christmas he would give me $500, and always he would roar at me to give some of it to my wife. Some of it? Heck, she got it all."

Blum's wage as a Morgan chauffeur was $150 a month.

Fair-y Tales: For those who can forget the girl shows and hot dog stands long enough to give Culture a chance, there is Streamlined Shakespeare at the Fair—one of the most satisfying adventures there. It is in the place called "Merrie England," which is a miniature English countryside. There is a reproduction of the famous Globe Theatre, true in every respect to the Bard's playhouse except that this one is roofed. Four Shakespearean plays are given in streamlined, 45-minute versions—"The Comedy of Errors," "As You Like It," "Taming of the Shrew," and "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Sulgrave Manor where George Washington was born, is shown; and, too, the birth places of John Harvard, founder of the University, and Shakespeare himself. In modern tempo are the Dagenham Girl Pipers on the Village Green and the Albertine Rasch girls in ballet; and the inevitable Punch and Judy show for the kiddies. There is a Town Crier and an Old Curiosity Shop; and strolling about are townswomen wearing voluminous gowns and wimples.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Samuel A. Cook, Neenah, former congressman, was elected state commander of the Wisconsin G.A.R. Thursday at its annual encampment. The election was unanimous.

Flushing of the water mains was begun that day as another step before the new filtration plant was put into complete operation.

As soon as the Traction company had finished laying rails on Lake street, the rails on Oneida street were to be replaced and the pavement between the tracks repaired.

G. R. Downer, superintendent of the Outagamie county asylum, was elected president of the state association of Trustees, Superintendents and Matrons of County Asylums at the convention held at Marinette the previous day. J. L. Jacquot, one of the Outagamie county trustees, read a paper on the duties of the board at one of the business sessions.

10 YEARS AGO
Friday, June 7, 1929
Construction of several modern boathouses that summer was approved Thursday night at a meeting of the Appleton Yacht club. The structures were to be built on the Fox river below Pierce park.

C. E. MacKay was reelected president of the Appleton Advertising club at a regular meeting Thursday at the Conway hotel. Ray Eichelberger was elected vice president, Ralph Gee, secretary, and Julius Kopplin, treasurer. The board of directors for the coming year was to include J. E. Murphy, Harvey Schintz, G. S. Galpin, H. B. Hallett and K. H. Corbett.

Peter Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hanson, route 2, Kaukauna, won the Lang trophy at the class exercises of Kaukauna High school in the school auditorium Thursday evening. He was selected as the best all-around student of the high school by a committee of five faculty members and was presented with the cup by Principal Olin G. Dryer.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

OLD SONGS OPEN DOORS

I hear an old song and a door swings wide,
And I am led by music far away
Into the quiet paths of yesterday.
There is the rambling house that was our pride,
The quiet garden where moss roses grew,
And fragrant pinks and phlox—old-fashioned flowers.

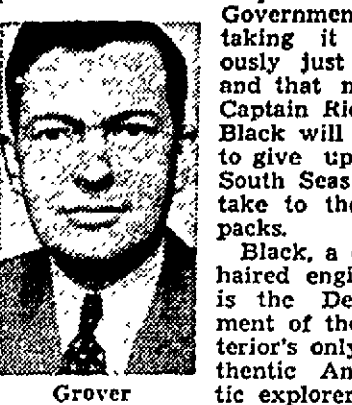

There were the only blossoms Mother knew,
There is the sundial spilling golden hours.
In May we left the house for Sterling's wood,
Where Johnny-jump-ups and anemones
Still grow in uncomplicated solitude.
We were acquainted with the friendly trees
And knew where violets hid modest heads.
We knew the birds and trailed their melodies.
We watched the spider spin its silver threads.

The road would soon be filled with golden dust
That would be soft beneath our bare brown toes.
But now the rutts were hard, yet run we must:
Over the meadowland a small warren goes
That was myself I feel the burgeoning
Of the young orchard, and lingering long
Before my old homestead find Youth and Spring
Again beneath the strains of an old song.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—This business of exploring the Antarctic always appeared to us so much piffle but the Grover went to Little America with Admiral Byrd on his second expedition.

Every expedition either to the Arctic or the Antarctic has to have a motive. Most of the recent ones starting from this country have explained they were going there to hunt weather data. The weather bureau says it has some importance.

Double-Barreled Purpose
But the current proposal, which is supported by Admiral Byrd, is advanced on a double basis, protection of whaling rights and securing our claims to that part of the Arctic already explored by Americans, including Byrd, Ellsworth and perhaps others.

The idea has been mullied over by various government agencies for several months but it was given an especial filip when Germany recently laid claim to a whaling tract right in the heart of territory long claimed by Norwegians. The State Department geographer, Samuel W. Boggs, told us that the claim was close to the border line but didn't quite penetrate the western hemisphere so we don't have to send the navy down there to drive them out.

Whales are being wiped out pretty fast, what with Germany, England, Japan and Norway now in the field with these tremendous factory ships. It is sort of like sending the Chicago packing houses galloping over all the cattle in sight. Germany uses whale oil for butter and we use it for soap, if that means anything. Japan trades hers to us in exchange for fuel oil for her busy war machine.

But all these things are only the big motivating forces. Captain Black is more immediately concerned with the question of getting congressional approval for the expedition. Admiral Byrd's trips cost close to a million dollars each. Plans are to make the government job cost a lot less by using government boats, planes and other facilities. Governments rarely get more for less, but that is the plan, anyway.

Worked in South Seas

Shortly after his return from the second Byrd expedition, Captain Black was hired by the Interior Department to perfect the U. S. claim to Canton and Enderbury islands, those flat little atolls southwest of Hawaii 1,200 miles or so, which we are planning to use some time as trans-Pacific airplane stations. They are sort of out of the way just now but you never can tell when they may come in handy. Maybe it is that way with the Antarctic.

Black has made four trips a year to Canton and Enderbury, taking supplies from Honolulu to the Hawaiian college boys who were living on the two islands. He was stationed at Honolulu until he was recalled here in February to begin working on plans for the Antarctic expedition. If Admiral Byrd doesn't head the expedition, Black may.

Black is a graduate of the University of North Dakota.

"That is where I got my first experience with Arctic weather," he said.

In a great many instances, it's the little things in life that are the most important. I, married life, for example, my wife gets more kick out of me giving her the last biscuit on the plate than she does when I give her a diamond bracelet. That is, she says she does. When I get rich I'm gonna give her a diamond bracelet just to see if she's been 'lyin' to me.

I guess my Uncle Fud knows the value of little things better than anybody else. He runs the Royal Palace Gem Theatre in Van Buren. Once he was complainin' to his landlord that the theatre was just over-run with mice and the landlord said, "Well, Fud, them mice is bein' enticed in here by that little pop-corn machine in the lobby. Why don't you get rid of it?"

Fud said, "Nothin' doin'! Last month I made sixty five dollars on my pictures, and a hundred on twenty dollars on my pop-corn!"

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — While the Progressive headquaters attitude continues to be one of cordial aloofness—like "you can help me if you want but I'm not going to ask you"—evidence continues to roll in that there is a real effort going on in some parts of the state for a Progressive-New Deal rapprochement.

It cannot be said that there is any proof that a Democratic-Progressive coalition is likely, but there are some interesting suggestions.

One of them comes out of the Fox river valley, where there are some very radical Progressives, many of whom were Socialists in the old days, and some very conservative Progressives, many of whom would go back to the Republicans if they could do so and save their faces.

Among the latter element the appointment of Tom Amle, the darling of the Progressive leftists, to New Deal favor, was like rubbing salt in an open wound. The right-wing Progressives in that section were just about ready to cut off their own loyalty to the New Deal.

Now it appears that ointment is being applied to that sore spot. Fox river valley Progressive leaders, it is reported reliably, are trying to strengthen the Progressive-New Deal understanding. The instrument will be Frank Murphy, friend of the LaFollettes, friend of Roosevelt, and a towering New Dealer in his own right.

VICE-PRESIDENT
Traveling through the northeastern Wisconsin counties comprising the Eighth congressional district, these Progressive harmonizers are circulating plans to run a slate of New Deal delegates in the Democratic primary next year which will send nominating delegates to the 1940 Democratic national convention.

For vice president, they hope, they will be pledged for Murphy. For president, they hope, although they aren't saying so just yet, they will be pledged for Roosevelt.

Significantly, such maneuvering is being done entirely outside the jurisdiction of the state headquarters organization of the Progressives, a fact which may show either that the party's hinterland machine is waking up, or that headquarters is dormant.

CONGRESSMAN PROSPECTS
This is also a good time to make note of the probability that the Progressives will furnish an interesting contest for the congressional nomination next year. As this column has previously reported, Senator Mike Kresky of Green Bay is already regarded as a candidate.

His opponent, it is now known definitely, will be Walter Melchior of Appleton, leader in the Outagamie county party organization, a veteran party worker, and an energetic campaigner.

That contest will be more than usually interesting because it will test the strength of two important factors in state politics.

Kresky's position as a minority floorleader and a ready debater and heckler of the Heil program have given him a popular reputation. Melchior's years of organization work have given him a wider reputation among the party's workers in the Eighth district. The result will tell whether publicity or machine contact is more important in Wisconsin Progressive politics.

RATIONAL REDUCTION
The Third of a Series of Three Articles

Men and Women who tend to take on excess flesh after the age of thirty-five can best combat the tendency or control weight by reducing the daily intake of refined carbohydrates and various refined cereals. As already explained, carbohydrate is excellent fuel, and when taken too freely it is burned to yield the energy constantly required not only for muscular work but also for the carrying on of the body functions, so that the fat of the body remains in storage, together with the additional fat taken in food.

Unrefined carbohydrates, eaten as they grow, are less objectionable in the diet of one inclined to be too stout, because the vitamins and minerals that grow with starch and sugar maintain better nutrition and tend to satisfy the hunger, appetite or desire for food with a smaller total intake. This effect has been noticed by many such persons when they substitute plain wheat, wheat germs and wheat bran in part for the white flour in their diet; also by many on a rational reduction regimen supplemented by suitable vitamin concentrates. Insufficient daily intake of vitamin B, for instance, causes lowering of "tone" in the muscle wall of stomach and intestine, a flabbiness, so to speak, and it requires a larger amount of food to "fill" such a stomach and give the sense of satisfaction that goes with a full stomach. Vitamin B-complex is present in plain wheat, in wheat germ and in wheat bran; it is removed in refining wheat into white flour.

There is at least 93 pounds of water in a body weighing 150 pounds. The amount of water in the body varies within normal limitations from season to season and with changes in the physical activity and the excretion of the kidneys and skin. Less water is retained in the tissues when the intake of common salt is kept at a minimum. More water is retained in the tissues when an excess of salt is taken, also when an excess of carbohydrate is taken. In the first few weeks of a rational reduction regimen there may be little or no loss of weight although the body measurements, if carefully recorded, show a definite reduction. This is due to temporary retention of the water formed by the combustion of fat in the body—water weighs more than fat but occupies less space. A little later the body unloads this water rapidly, thru the normal excretory channels (kidneys, skin, intestine, lungs) and then the weight begins to diminish in proportion with the fat measurements, if carefully recorded, show a definite reduction.

It is a fallacy to assume that any lasting reduction can be accomplished either by drinking less water or by sweating it out. Any change in weight from such methods is a matter of hours or a day—until the water-balance of the body automatically adjusts itself. Reducing or trying to gain weight or just keeping well, it is always a good rule to drink water when you feel thirsty, as much as cold or warm as you prefer, before meals or after meals or with meals, provided the water is not used to wash down unassimilated food.

Royal Visit to U.S. Has Special Meaning Abroad

European View on Trip Different From American, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Why are visits made by kings and queens to other countries? Just for sightseeing or pleasure or even for that vague objective called "good-will"?

These questions doubtless have occurred to many people in America, but the answers are different, depending upon whether the viewpoint is European or American.

To the people of the United States, the visit of the king and queen of Great Britain is just a casual affair, related somehow to the fact that the monarchs were planning to visit one of their dominions, Canada, and happened to be nearby. Once the distinguished visitors are gone, once a few pleasant and sentimental exchanges of greeting and official entertainments have been given, the incident passes into history.

But, to Europe, the picture is entirely different. The European habit has been to use visits of kings and prime ministers for a specific purpose—to convey an impression of close friendship, if not alliance. The British and American spokesmen may use up all the words in their political vocabularies to deny that anything in the way of an entente or international agreement is intended, and they would be literally telling the truth, but the continental observers read into a visit like that of the British monarchs something far more transcendent and far more significant than a mere exchange of words or speeches, however generally or abstractly phrased they may be.

Far-Seeing Effect
The mere fact that the king and queen of Great Britain come to the city of Washington and stay at the White House is as sensational a piece of diplomacy and has far-reaching effect on public opinion abroad as when the president of the United States visited England and France on the eve of the peace negotiations at Paris. It is not just a passing episode in history. It is a part of the whole international situation as it relates to peace.

For, no matter how strongly the American insists upon "isolation," and this sentiment is probably more firmly implanted today than ever, the European mind is in the habit of balancing off nations and powers. It is not the immediate quarrel or friction which causes this appraisal to be made, nor even the assurance that America would stay out of a world war for two or even three years. It is where America would find herself in a final showdown of strength in a long-drawn-out war such as world history has witnessed on many an occasion in the past.

In Great Britain, the feeling prevails that, in such a showdown, the United States, being a democracy, would be found alongside the other democracies. In Germany, the fear prevails that maybe what happened in 1917 may happen over again. The United States, of course, remains aloof and announces her intention of saying out of Europe's quarrels. But Europe is realistic about a world of airplanes and submarines and new methods of war which reach far beyond the zones of operations, especially in the struggle for raw materials of which America has an abundance.

Long Look Ahead
It is not without logic, therefore, that a long look ahead was taken by the British ministry in arranging the visit of their sovereigns to American shores as a means not only of tying Canada closer to the empire, but also of bringing the whole world to witness the fraternity that exists between the heads of the United States and British governments and their respective peoples. This kind of interpretation may be wholly mistaken as to its ultimate operation—that is, as to whether it ever does bring America into the balance of power at all—but Europeans will think so. The British will hope so, and the Germans will fear it may be so.

On the whole, therefore, the moral of the visit of the British king and queen will be to dramatize so that the whole world may read of it, the natural ties of blood and heritage which exist between the British and American peoples.

The bolstering effect on the morale of the British people themselves, who have lately become nervous about war, is tremendously important from a military standpoint. America helped win the war last time. What greater confidence could be instilled in the British populace than the feeling that overseas exists a potential ally?

As for Italy, her die may have been cast on the German side for the moment, but the closer relations of America and Britain cannot but have the beginnings of an influence at Rome. So also in the far east Japan notes with considerable interest how Britain and America are drawn together. It has an effect on far eastern diplomacy.

Yes, it's just a visit to the world's fair and to see the rights, so far as the average American analyzes it, it, to the European mind it's a big event—maybe a preventative of war—and helps more than can possibly appear on the surface the British-French policy assuring peace by a new balance of power in the world.

Wisconsin Health

BY DR. C. A. HARPER,
State Health Officer

The one-time captain of the men of death, tuberculosis, is only a corporal now, and still slipping. Last year's tuberculosis deaths in Wisconsin fell below 1,000 for the first time in state history, and fell so far below that they fell below 900 as well, totaling but 899 in the official tabulation.

This marked a 10 percent decrease in tuberculosis deaths in one year. Even more startling was the fact that this sharp decrease did not occur in tuberculosis deaths at ages under 20 years, but among older people. In the age group 40 to 59 years almost 80 percent of last year's decrease was effected.

With local tuberculosis testing programs and follow-up work in progress among our young people on a more extensive scale than ever before, it is reasonable to predict that further decreases in tuberculosis deaths are in store for Wisconsin.

Tuberculosis is usually one of the slowest diseases to develop in the human body. It has to depend partly upon weakened resistance in the individual. By the same token, the cure and the prevention of tuberculosis are slow procedures. In this way, prevention work carried on this year may not have the full effect upon the mortality

Babson Suggests Industries Open To '39 Graduates

Declares Employment Condition Better Today Than Year Ago

Washington, D. C. — This month the supply of workers in the United States and Canada will be swelled by a huge wave of over 2,000,000 school and college graduates. Getting these young people employed is a serious task. However, I believe that if parents analyze their children and attack this problem intelligently, it can be solved. Certainly, conditions are much better today than a year ago.

Opportunities for today's graduates may be divided into six groups: (1) Agricultural, (2) Professional, (3) Building, (4) Manufacturing, (5) Selling, (6) Finance. I have never seen a young person who was not fitted for one of these groups. It is much more important to ascertain whether a boy is best adapted to selling or to teaching, than it is to ascertain whether the chemical industry or transportation offers the best opportunities. For which of these six divisions is a child, by inheritance, training and environment, best fitted? That is the problem which parents and teachers must answer.

12 Look Good
Many readers have written me asking my advice as to the best fields for their newly-graduated children to enter at this time. In reply, I say it is easy to select an industry, such as air-conditioning, as offering the best opportunity at the moment. On the other hand, if this is generally recognized, air-conditioning will become overcrowded. Contrariwise, if the general feeling is that the investment business no longer has good opportunities, this very fact may cause it to offer excellent opportunities for the few who enter it. Therefore, I will name 12 industries all of which look good to me. I will endeavor, moreover, to list these in the order of their importance.

(1) Air-Conditioning—I especially have in mind air-conditioning new small houses and selling individual air-conditioning units. Hotels, offices, restaurants, and stores in the south and central west must adopt air-conditioning to survive.

(2) Chemicals — Most chemical companies are already prosperous, while the future offers untold possibilities. Were I eighteen years of age, I should go to a college where I could major in chemical engineering.

(3) Alloys and Plastics — Great developments are taking place in the sale and use of alloys, while the plastic industry offers tremendous opportunities. Most household articles will be made from plastics within a few years.

(4) Automatic Machinery — The mistaken attitude of labor leaders, plus the new wage and hour act, is forcing manufacturers to purchase more automatic machinery. Yet, probably not more than 20 per cent of the manufacturers are using as much automatic machinery as they profitably could.

(5) Merchandising—This includes stores, mail-order, advertising, and other features of selling. Wherever goods are made or whoever makes them, they must be sold, irrespective of the value of the dollar or the character of our government. Trained merchandisers should always be in demand.

(6) Electrical Equipment—All divisions of the heavy industries, except building, are dull at the present time; but these industries must come back before the employment problem is finally solved. Manufacturers of heavy electrical equipment should be the first to prosper when this "comeback" develops.

(7) Household Equipment—There are many other new forms of household equipment which should come into general use. Ninety per cent of our homes may become obsolete within a few years. Homes will be purchased in the future not for their appearance, but for their interior equipment.

(8) Investment Banking — With the large amount of money now piling up, the floodgates sometime must break through. "Idle money ultimately burns a hole in one's pocket." After the stock exchanges are reorganized and the SEC regulations modified, the investment business will again be prosperous.

(9) Gasoline and Tires—Whether one has an old car or a new car, he must buy gasoline and tires. These are both basic and repeat industries. They are always worthy of consideration.

Autos Still Good Bet
(10) Automobiles—Although the automobile has come to stay, the market may temporarily be oversaturated. It is a sound and fundamental industry, but it may not now offer the opportunities which it did 20 years ago.

(11) Automobile Accessories—The above criticism does not apply to auto accessories—that is, manufacturers specializing in parts and gadgets for automobiles. These have a broad base to work upon. Their manufacture does not require great capital.

(12) Real Estate and Building—I am very bearish on old houses; but some day there will be a building boom of small modern houses. The current revival may well be the beginning of the boom. Pre-fabricated houses interest me greatly. I also believe there will be a great demand for small farms, especially in the vicinity of college towns.

Instead of waiting until war comes and then have your children used for cannon fodder, it is not much better for them to make a little sacrifice now and train for home defense work? I have in mind that they become experts on gas masks, anti-aircraft guns, nursing, and other protective lines. Finally, let me say that it is far more important for children to develop character, health, desire for babies and for land, than to select any definite industry!

On May 30th, Wilbur Shaw drove to his second victory in the 500-mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Champion Tires at an average speed of 115.05 miles an hour. Champion race drivers, whose very lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction. That is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

Perfect Breakfasts

June mornings urge the bride to put her best foot foremost into the kitchen. If all brides would band together to bring up the standard of American breakfasts—not for more pretentious and elaborate meals, but for well-chosen, well-cooked, plain foods, it would be a long step toward the happiness and well-being of the new family.

Breakfasts are such important meals and yet all too often they are neglected and made just hit and miss affairs. It takes a good breakfast to start the young husband off in the proper spirit—a breakfast that is attractive, satisfying and energy-producing.

Here are a few menus and recipes that any man will enjoy.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

It is very apparent from the many letters this column received that our young men have been neglecting their manners as well as their grooming, and America's young women are pretty upset about them. To put it mildly!

Indeed, if these letters are any indication, the United States will have fewer and fewer marriages unless the boys shake themselves out of their unbecomingly lethargic and offer the girls more "allure!"

Miss "Twenty-One" of Buffalo, New York, wrote the third best letter on what our youth lacked:

"Mr. Man of 1939 please get off your high horse and quit thinking you're the answer to a married man's prayer—because you're not! Stop eyeing every female with such a critical eye and eye yourself for a while. When you are finally aware of your faults, please do something about them!"

1—Comb your hair and keep it combed. Some of you will find it can stand a good shampoo. We like clean, healthy looking hair too, just as you do on us.

2—Please don't be too lazy to wear a tie. Except when you are participating in sports we prefer to see a tie on you. And not one of those loud ones either.

3—Pull up those socks. How would you like to see us with stockings draped around our ankles?

4—Get out of those Jeep shoes and stop walking as though you were moving on rubber wings. And don't forget to polish your other shoes. We can't get away with shoddy looking footwear so why should you?

5—And how about keeping that neckline trimmed or would you like to use our curlers?

6—Put the crease back in your trousers if you can remember where it goes! And why not wear matching pants and coat when you have a date? We like harmony too!

7—Please try to keep that cigarette stain off your fingertips. We don't like stained fingers running through our hair.

And last, but not least, WILL YOU KINDLY CLEAN YOUR FINGERNAILS! You soon move us down when we let nail polish chip and forget to remove it. Nothing compared to dirty fingernails!

There are a few more things which go into making the Ideal Man, and here they are:

Even though we girls may have adopted a few masculine habits—

Young men who brag about conquests lack appeal for the fastidious young lady. This untidy youth is chasing love out of the window by his arrogance.

smoking and drinking cocktails—we are still ladies and like to be treated as such. Don't forget to assist us in and out of autos or across the street. Those courtesies mean much.

Cut out those filthy stories which you seem to love to tell. Keep them for your stage. They spoil that certain something, and when that is spoiled, there isn't any appeal left.

And we are not interested in hearing about your former conquests. We are the present, and maybe, we hope to be the future.

We don't want all our dates to be strenuous ones—swimming, skiing, skating, etc. Take us to a show, or for a ride or just let's sit on the porch and talk. It will do you good too.

Don't get tight on our hands. It makes us think we are not worth staying sober for, and if we don't like being sober, why bother to be a man?

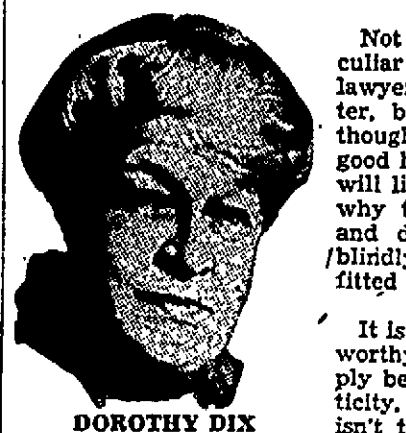

Lastly, stop talking about your escapades. We know when you are fibbing about how many beers you drank and how many lips you kissed! And if you are not fibbing, bragging, we would rather you keep it to yourself.

Men might benefit by leaflet, "How to Treat Oily Scalp." Enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp if you send for it. Address me care of this paper.

Men Advised to Take Stock of Their Marital Qualifications

BY DOROTHY DIX

I have always contended that a great deal of misery and heartbreak for all concerned could be prevented if only men would try to find out, before they took into themselves wives, whether they themselves were good matrimonial material.

DOROTHY DIX, the philanthropist, the human butler, who must always spend his life in flitting from flower to flower in the rosy garden of girls. Always the fresh face tempts him. Always he must get up and follow any woman. And so he should leave himself free to be a universal lover instead of breaking the heart of a wife with his infidelities.

Then there is the man who always hears the call of the wild and whom no woman can housebreak or domesticate. His idea of home is a place to go to when everything else is shut up. After he has parked his bride in an apartment or a vine-wreathed cottage, he goes blithely off to spend his evenings with his old cronies, leaving her by her lonesome.

There is the man who is too absorbed in his business to have any time or thought or attention to give his wife. And the ne'er-do-well who can't even support a canary bird who grows her own feathers. The grouchy who only use for a wife is for somebody who isn't big enough and strong enough to beat him up for saying to her the things he wouldn't dare say to an able-bodied man.

There is the tightwad who begrudges the price of a home and family. And the drunkard and the gambler who drag the women who are foolish enough to marry them down into the pit with them.

None of these men should marry. Not only because they should not be allowed to marry, but because the lives of innocent women who have never done them any harm, but all because they would save themselves so much trouble, so much nagging, so many tears and reproaches. And so much alimony.

However, it is not often that a man takes this practical pre-nuptial view of the subject, and so it is refreshing to find one who has heard in the matter and who is side-stepping the altar because he doesn't feel that he is cut out to be a husband.

He writes: "There is a girl who is in love with me and wants to marry me, but, while I like her, I shall not marry her. Because, in the first place, I am not working and would have to go on relief. In the second place, I like to go to parties and get drunk, and this is something she objects to. In the third place, I feel that if I married her I would make her unhappy because I haven't any intention of settling down, for I like to chase around with plenty of girls. And I can get 'em because I have the looks. Don't you think I am right?"

Alta boy! You surely have the right slant on the matrimonial problem. Marriage is not for the likes of you and you will save yourself and the girl a lot of misery by staying single.

Dear Miss Dix—Is there a difference between the love of a son for his mother and the love he gives his sweetheart or his wife? Can a mother love her son so much that it makes her hate the girl he loves?

Answer: Being a stepmother is a hard and thankless task and I would not advise you to undertake it unless you love the man well enough to make just being with him compensate for many hardships.

THE WOMAN.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a woman of 35, engaged to be married to a widower who has three small children, all under 12 years of age. If I marry this man, I would have to give up my good job, leave my parents and friends, and go to live with him in a small town many miles away. What would be my chances of happiness in this case?

REALLY SLIMS

Here's a dainty cut, beautifully proportioned style for larger women. Pattern 4165, designed by Anne Adams, will do as much for your figure as any dress you've ever owned at many times the cost. Yet it's quick to make with the Sewing Instructor's clear directions. The front center panel forms an unbroken, flowing line with the delectably scalloped yoke. The neck curves gracefully over to button down the side-front. Make the sleeves puffed or loosely flared; put a fresh white edging of ruffles for trim. You might add a simple little collar and scalloped pocket too.

Pattern 4165 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1 1/2 yards fulfilling.

New Deal Is Heading Toward Goal of Both Fascists, Bolos

BY WESTBROOK TEGLER

New York—Of all the crazy contradictions that confuse and excite the common American intelligence these days the most baffling is the fact that the Roosevelt administration is distinctly friendly to individual communists and has the approval of the party but is unmistakably fascist not only around the edges but at the core. Communists and fellow-travelers in the administration and out of it approve and work for measures and ideas which the fascists of the country would themselves promote if they were in power. And those fascists and their fellow-travelers rant and bounce in dreadful alarm because they can't see the sameness of communism and fascism or realize that this government is moving toward the common goal of both.

Just why this administration favors communists is not plain, but there is no doubt that communists are welcome as New Dealers, and there is an unmistakable preference or sympathy for organizations which are either dominated by communists or seriously troubled by attempts to establish such domination.

On the other hand, persons and organizations of fascist leanings are excluded from official positions and the semiofficial circle of a government which nevertheless is promoting their aims. The communists received no mandate in either of Mr. Roosevelt's elections, and there was nothing in the vote of the people which could be construed as an invitation to them to move in. And if the administration should be turned out next year its successor would have an equal right—which is to say no right at all, unless it had faced the issue in the campaign—to show an equal preference for fascists.

In this government there is an attempt—sometimes outspoken, sometimes concealed—to create a personal following for a leader through the distribution of benefits, represented as gifts from the president.

Little Joe Goebbels of the Nazi regime has an approximate counterpart in Harold Ickes, who called Mr. Garner a back-stabber because Garner, more loyal to his country and his principles than to an individual, has the effrontery to become a candidate for president.

Radio Must Behave or Take the Consequences

There has been a persistent attempt to convince the whole people that private business is not only an evil but a failure, and the radio, being under administration control and subject to coercion and censorship, has been officially extolled above the press, which is not yet conquered but might be throttled by subtle laws and economic pressure. This studied praise of the radio has had the purpose of discrediting the press because the press has criticized freely, whereas the radio has no independence. The radio must behave or take the consequences, except insofar as the press is able to defend its rival from intimidation and penalties.

Resolution Before Senate Directs Heil to Accept It For State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—A resolution directing governor Heil to accept on behalf of the state a memorial to Jean Nicolet, first white man to visit Green Bay and the Fox river valley section, was before the state senate today.

The resolution was introduced by Senator Kresky of Green Bay, on behalf of the Wisconsin Jean Nicolet Memorial commission, of which Robert M. Desseureau, Green Bay educator, is an officer.

The resolution authorizes the state superintendent of buildings and grounds to find a suitable place within the capital building or on the grounds for the memorial "as a permanent and lasting tribute to the memory and honor of the enterprising and intrepid explorer, Jean Nicolet."

Will Provide Funds

The resolution pointed out that "various public-minded men, women and public and parochial school children in the state of Wisconsin" are to provide the means for the erection of the statue honoring the first white man to reach Wisconsin more than 300 years ago.

"They are, the measure said, 'manifesting a sincere interest and desire to preserve the historic symbol and significance to the state of Wisconsin of the advent of Jean Nicolet, first white man to set foot on Wisconsin soil some three hundred years ago.'"

Kresky said he anticipated no difficulty in obtaining adoption of the resolution, and Desseureau has announced that a representative group of citizens will form an advisory committee for the erection of the memorial.

Accidental Deaths in Nation Cut; Traffic Reductions Set Pace

Chicago — (AP)—Accidental deaths in the nation during 1938 were reduced by 11,000 with traffic reductions setting the pace in the decline, the National Safety Council reported Thursday.

The council said there were 90,000 persons killed in all types of accidents. That represented a 10 per cent drop from the 1937 figure, or the biggest reduction ever achieved in a single year.

Traffic safety measures were credited with saving 7,200 lives in 1938. Traffic fatalities were reduced 18 per cent.

There was a 13 per cent reduction in occupational deaths, an 8 per cent cut in deaths from public accidents not involving motor vehicles, and a 2 per cent drop in fatal home accidents in 1938.

Despite the 18 per cent decline, traffic deaths totalled 32,400. In addition 1,150,000 motorists suffered non-fatal injuries. The council said the cost of automobile deaths, injuries and property damage was estimated at $1,500,000,000.

R. L. Forney, the council's chief statistician, said the 1938 record for traffic accidents "demonstrates that preventing traffic accidents throughout the nation is not a hopeless task."

Accidents in the home caused 31,500 deaths, while deaths in public accidents not involving motor vehicles totalled 16,500. There were 16,500 occupational fatalities.

Deaths from falls numbered 23,700 and two-thirds of them occurred from falls in homes. Drownings numbered about 7,500 and fatal burns 7,400.

Air transportation had fewer fatalities during the year. Despite a 17 per cent increase in passenger-miles, commercial airlines reported 38 per cent fewer passenger fatalities.

Deaths from work accidents on farms numbered about 4,300 in 1938. No other single industry had as many fatal work accidents.

Buy Property on Badger Avenue as New Church Site

Catholic Diocese Acquires Land for New Parish, If It Is Needed

When and if a new Catholic parish is established in Appleton, the church will be located on approximately two acres on Badger avenue, opposite the new Senior High school, purchased this week by the Catholic diocese of Green Bay from John Schneider, Inc. The property was acquired by the diocese at this time, when it has no immediate plans for establishing a new parish, as a protection against the future.

The property, which includes about 15 lots, has a frontage of 380 feet on Badger avenue, starting at a point about 175 feet north of the intersection with Badger avenue. The north boundary line runs west from Badger avenue to N. Outagamie street, and the west boundary follows Outagamie street for 529 feet to the intersection with Packard street. The south boundary follows Packard street for 105 feet, and then runs northeast to the point of beginning on Badger avenue.

Appleton now has four Catholic parishes, with approximately 2,500 Catholic families. St. Theresa parish, the newest parish, soon will begin construction of a new church. Since its organization about a dozen years ago services have been held in a building which will be used as a parish school when the new structure is completed.

According to information from the diocesan offices in Green Bay there are no plans afoot for organization of a new parish, and there are no indications that a movement will be started in the near future. The property was acquired, it was said, because it is believed that the city will grow in the neighborhood of the new high school, and if a new parish is to be established it probably will be required in that part of the city.

Testify Elderly Patients Beaten

In November, 1936, he found him "in a dark corner of a basement, his eyes blackened and black marks on his body; he could hardly talk to me."

Hubert Finnigan of Juneau, asylum attendant for 12 years, told Justice of the Peace Alphonse Krueger, who is conducting the hearing.

"I left one morning with some patients to do some field work. When we returned about 5 p. m., I washed and went to dinner before returning to the ward. When I did, I found Ernest Harter, a fellow about 50, breathing hard. He gasped that he had been beaten up by a younger man. There were black marks about his ribs."

Finnigan said Harter died three days later, adding that no inquest was held.

At yesterday's hearings, Mrs. Agnes Radloff, an attendant for three years in one of the women's wards at the asylum, testified that when she had Saturday's off, the keys were turned over to a woman patient.

Testimony was given by a woman attendant at the asylum that a woman patient had died without medical attendance and that the body had been left in a room with other patients for several hours. On cross examination she said a doctor had been called but failed to arrive.

Boy Who Hooks the Biggest Fish Will Get Rod and Reel

Imagine going fishing with your dad on some northern lake on a beautiful June day and catching your limit of pike or pickerel.

And then, just for catching one of those fish, someone offered to give you a nice light steel fishing rod, an anti-backlash reel and a pure silk line.

You'd think the guy was crazy. You'd think that's just what could happen to you if you enter the fish you catch, while fishing with your dad during the week of June 18, in the Appleton Post-Crescent's Dad and Son Fishing Week contest.

The Post-Crescent will give the rod and the Appleton chapter of the Izaak Walton league will give the reel and line. The idea was originated in Appleton last year to promote a better feeling of fellowship between fathers and their sons.

The contest is simple and requires no investment except the pleasure of a fishing trip with dad to any lake, river or ocean, if anyone wants to travel that far. There are no restrictions on the kind of fish that may be entered in the contest. However, the fish must be caught by a boy under 17 years of age while fishing with his dad or guardian during the week of June 18.

Any boy living in the Appleton area who has not yet reached the age of 17 is eligible to compete. All blanks must be filled out carefully and filed at the Post-Crescent office by Saturday, July 1, to be considered for the prize. The blank must be signed by an adult not related to the contestant and the Post-Crescent reserves the right to check into each entry and to require an affidavit if it seems to be desirable.

Gets Warrant When Camera Is Smashed During Union Fight

Milwaukee — A warrant issued last night charged Henry Rossman, 28, with malicious destruction of property in an attack on Casimir L. Masters, amateur photographer who attempted to take pictures of yesterday's battle between factions of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company employees.

Rossman, one of the "vacationing" CIO United Automobile Workers union members, was released last night on $100 bond.

The fight broke out when about 60 men attempted to break up a meeting of 200 employees discussing a "back to work" movement through an independent union. Masters complained he merely was passing and wanted pictures of the fight, and that Rossman smashed his camera.

Three men were treated at hospital for head injuries and cuts as the result of the melee. A score of others were less seriously hurt.

It Is Said..

The city engineer's office Thursday was surprised by a letter from an Appleton taxpayer asking that the weed commissioner be notified to cut the weeds on a vacant lot. The job will cost him $1.85. The usual angle is that most property owners spend their time chasing the weed commissioner away from their properties so they won't have to pay the assessment.

That after Claude N. Greisch, deputy health officer, paid $1 for a swell trick that had everyone in city hall baffled, someone learned the secret of the trick and told everyone how it is done. The trick had to do with putting a coin inside a bag in a box after the box had been closed. Claude is wondering how the secret got out.

American Touches at Embassy Garden Party Fail to Perturb Royal Visitors From Britain

BY BETH CAMPBELL

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The British king and queen brought a bit of Buckingham palace to the British embassy garden party, but they didn't seem to mind the definitely American touches.

New to the 1,400 guests, but old for their majesties, were the formal entry to "God Save the King," the opening of wide lanes for the royal couple to pass through, and escorts of ladies-in-waiting, equeiries and Scotland Yard operatives.

But the gathering of Americans with big names and official rank on Your acres of British soil under a hot sun and threatening clouds yesterday was not quite in the Buckingham palace manner.

In fact, Representative Bell (D-Mo.) said afterward:

"It was sort of like our church socials in Missouri."

And the slim, youthful-looking king who so readily extended his hand to a Vanderbilt, a Lodge, a Rockefeller and a score of congressmen in quick succession, did not seem to notice that some men wore business suits instead of Oxford gray cut-suits like his own.

10-Gallon Hat

Or that Senator Bulow (D-S.D.) carried a white 10-gallon hat with his formal gear instead of a gray top hat like the king's.

Conversation frequently was informal. At one point, Vice President Garner was observed slapping the king on the back.

The queen, carrying a dainty ruffled parasol which matched her bouffant white dress and picture hat, put out her white-gloved hand without waiting to see if women whom she greeted would curtsy. About half of those presented did so.

She even remarked that Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) was "lucky" to have a companion in one hand ready to cover her ankle-length gray lace dress in case of rain.

The shower held off, however, and a light sprinkle as the rulers left was too late to let the crowd see how raindrops would sparkle on the queen's jewels. An inch-wide diamond bracelet clasped three strands of pearls at her neck. A diamond clasp on her white purse, a diamond bracelet and diamond and pearl car rings completed the array.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Curtsies
Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt curtsied to the queen and talked to King George for five whole minutes. Admiral Richard E. Byrd of Antarctic fame chatted with the king, who was heard asking Attorney General Frank Murphy about sit-down strikes.

While the king sat with J. P. Morgan on the terrace for a pot of tea, Queen Elizabeth was hearing some of the whimsical, homespun conversations for which Mrs. John Garner, wife of the vice president, is famous.

Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham of Louisville, widow of a former ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Malin Craig, wife of the army chief of staff, also had tea-table conversations with her majesty.

But it was in her garden tours that the king and queen rubbed elbows—literally—with hundreds. Although only 100 or so were presented by the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay, dozens of others got smiles.

King George and Queen Elizabeth appeared to enjoy the party as much as did their guests. The queen looked and acted like a picture book queen, but she seemed very human—she had a fresh sunburn.

Lucille Meusel to Join in Recital at Reunion of Sorority

Miss Lucille Meusel, Green Bay, opera singer, will join Dr. and Mrs. Percy Fullinwider in presenting a recital at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at Peabody hall, Lawrence Conservatory of Music, for Mu Phi Epsilon members, alumnae, patronesses and husbands as well as a few invited guests. The program will include vocal numbers by Miss Meusel accompanied by Mrs. Fullinwider and violin and piano selections by Dr. and Mrs. Fullinwider. Following the recital the group will adjourn to Castle hall, across the street from the Conservatory, where a banquet will be served at 7 o'clock.

Miss Helen Mueller will speak at the banquet, and Mrs. F. Theodore Cloak will give a reading.

Other reunion activities for the sorority include attendance at the Lawrence college alumni picnic Saturday noon on the south campus, and an informal get-together at one of the homes in the afternoon. Mrs. William Wright, McNasha, is general chairman of the reunion.

QUEEN ELIZABETH MIXES WITH GARDEN PARTY GUESTS

Queen Elizabeth of England and her hostess, Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador, are shown (front center) strolling among the guests at the royal garden party at the British embassy in Washington. The queen wore a ground length white fluff dress and carried a parasol. Arrow points to Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme court.

Folk Singers and Dancers Amuse British Royal Pair

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The petite queen of England, wearing a diamond and ruby coronet, sat forward in her chair to watch Soco Gap square dancers from North Carolina do the "water wheel."

Britain's king-emperor, resplendent in evening attire and glittering decorations, sat by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to hear the Coon Creek girls from Kentucky "knock 'em daisies" with fiddle and song.

The unusual scene was the climax of a state dinner and musical program in which American folk singers and dancers appeared with such eminent vocalists as Lawrence Tibbett and Marian Anderson, the Negro contralto.

But before the program, take a peek in the oak-paneled state dining room.

Seating Arrangements
First, there had to be an extra cushion for Queen Elizabeth's chair, which of course was at the right of President Roosevelt's.

Speaker Bankhead was at her right, then Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Lord Eldon, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Secretary Woodring and so on.

Across the big horseshoe table, decorated with hundreds of graille white orchids, in and around the Monroe gold and mirror centerpiece, sat Mrs. Roosevelt in lovely Alencon lace. King George was at her right.

Next to him was Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of the chief justice, now ill. Vice President Garner was at Mrs. Roosevelt's left, then Lady Lindsay, Secretary Hull and Lady Katharine Seymour.

At the left of the president were Mrs. Garner, Sir Ronald Lindsay, Mrs. Bankhead. And on around the table were 82 of Washington's and London's official elite.

Many Watch Queen
The queen was the object of many eyes. Her coronet was just a beginning, although it contained the biggest single diamond seen here recently—maybe ever. Her white tulle bouffant gown had three full flounces speckled with gold. Her necklace and earrings were of diamonds and pigeon-blood rubies, and she wore a diamond necklace.

Thanks to King George, who sent the word around after a taste of Washington's heat, men in the royal party were in tails instead of court uniform.

Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador, wore silver and blue brocade. The queen's ladies-in-waiting were distinguished by diamond "E's" on their left shoulders. They wore tiaras slightly lower than her majesty's.

After the terrapin and capon, there were toasts by the president and the king—toasts pledging the friendship of the English-speaking nations.

Musical Follows
Then the ladies moved to the green room, where Queen Elizabeth sat on a couch and the guests took turns talking to her. In the dining room, President Roosevelt signalled for King George and Vice President Garner to come around to his side of the table, and all the men were served liqueurs and coffee.

Then into the east room for the musical, to which 200 more guests came.

Tibbett sang "Sylvia." Marion Anderson sang "Ave Maria." "De ol' Ark's a Moverin'." Alan Lomax gave the cowboy touch with "Git Along Little Dogies."

And Mrs. Roosevelt announced that Kate Smith would sing first instead of last because she had to leave for her radio program.

When it was over, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and King George and Queen Elizabeth kept the entertainers, led by the red-coated Marine band.

It must have been fun; it lasted until 12:30 a. m.

The Rev. Henry C. Head, diocesan director of the Green Bay Apostolate was present and took part in the meeting. Mr. Keller will appoint a committee to study the by laws and recommend such changes as are deemed necessary.

New members of the board were welcomed at the meeting last night. Bills were allowed and monthly reports given.

Village residents were also pleased as gardens took new leases on life and cooler weather supplanted the sweltering temperatures that had existed for several days.

The precipitation was accompanied by lightning and thunder and the chicken house on the farm of Henry Fahser, northeast of Manawa, was damaged by fire caused by lightning Wednesday morning. The roof and interior were badly impaired and other nearby buildings were threatened. The Manawa fire department was called and assisted in extinguishing the blaze and protecting other property. The car owned by Clarence Tohm, Iola, received four badly bruised tires and other minor damages Monday night when the automobile was forced from the road by another car on the curve near the Manawa depot and careened off over the railroad tracks, narrowly missing the guard signal. The machine scattered some potatoes that were stationed near the A. Sturm and Sons warehouse.

Menasha Aldermen Vote for Action in Boulevard Debate

Decide to Remove Menasha Side of Boulevard Separating Twin Cities

Menasha — Swept by a wave of enthusiasm for immediate action, the Menasha aldermen brought the Nicollet boulevard problem to a head Thursday night when they voted to instruct the street committee and city engineer to make a survey and to remove the Menasha side of the boulevard from Washington street to Ahnaip street and as well as on the east end of the boulevard.

Mayor W. H. Jensen asked Alderman William Karrow for a report on the boulevard problem and the aldermen disposed of the matter in 5 minutes. Neenah aldermen Wednesday night suggested that the terrace be cut back on both sides of the street with the center strip remaining.

M. F. Crowley, a new member of the council, pointed out that the boulevard problem was argued by the two councils some years ago and eventually subsided. He declared that the same result would occur this time except if Menasha takes this initiative. Alderman Reuben Tuchscherer asked that the street committee be instructed to go ahead and Crowley made the motion.

The vote was unanimous although Alderman Karrow favored "one more meeting with Neenah." He pointed out that the two councils as a group have not met. Mayor W. H. Jensen objected to any more meetings with Neenah as an attempt to "trade a bad horse for a good one."

Asks About Cost
Alderman Edward Zeinger favored action but wanted to know how much it would cost the city to remove its half of the boulevard and to replace it with cement. "Will you submit an estimate of the cost by the next meeting?" Karrow asked. "The work will be done by next meeting," Reuben Tuchscherer, chairman of the street committee replied.

Otto C. Klepfel was reappointed to the board of review by Mayor W. H. Jensen with confirmation by the council. Other members of the board are Mayor Jensen, City Clerk Walter J. Dougherty and the two assessors, R. M. Heckner and Joseph Stommel.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the season's supply of coal. The coal will have to meet standard specifications prescribed in the advertisement for bids. A communication from the state board of health requesting the city to take action on sanitary measures at 619 Seventh street and 723 Appleton street was read. The health officer was instructed to make weekly inspections on Appleton street and negotiations have been completed to correct the Seventh street problem.

Limit Tonnage
The city engineer was instructed to designate certain streets which have been given turn-over treatment for tonnage limits. Crowley objected to passing such an act for the police department has no means of enforcing it. The mayor suggested that the city might be able to run a bluff and the resolution passed with Crowley and O'Brien voting no.

Alderman William DeBruin requested installation of sidewalk on the east side of the street from Broad street south to the river. He pointed out that crossing the street forms a traffic hazard and there is no walk on the east side.

DeBruin, chairman of the bridges committee, reported that the Mill street bridge tender has asked for rain coats but he objected to such a purchase and declared that "The time has come where we've got to put a foot down somewhere."

A report that a Tayco street bridge tender also holds a job as a bartender at Hotel Menasha will be investigated by DeBruin. The aldermen expressed themselves in opposition to one man holding two jobs. Question arose as to whether the city has any jurisdiction over the Tayco street bridge for the salaries are paid by the state.

Need Facts for Sound Opinions, Clubs are Told

Acheson Deplores Lack of Information to Combat Propaganda

Neenah — Pointing out that the trend toward a more central form of government will be inevitable if democracy fails to work, Dr. E. Acheson, associate editor of Reader's Digest, criticized the lack of reliable sources of factual information and pointed out the dangers of propaganda in a talk before members of the service clubs of the Twin Cities at the Valley Inn Thursday noon. Over 100 men attended the meeting.

The speaker admitted that our form of government, self-government, is the most difficult form ever attempted but he pointed out that we have educated the citizen and trained him to think so that that type of government will function. "We have not provided ourselves with material out of which to form sound opinion," the speaker said.

"We average out" and discount for the source of our information but we haven't any actual factual material and we need it desperately," the speaker said. "Today's pressures are exerted by many groups through propaganda."

During the World war propaganda and censorship were used to develop the will to fight. To be successful propaganda must be concealed and the public must be kept in it getting the truth. "Leadership must be captured and convinced to persuade fellow citizens to lead the undertaking," Acheson declared, pointing out instances of the World war. "The appeals are made to the emotions and not to reason."

Slogans such as "War to end War" are effective in propaganda for they appear to be thought in capsule form and gloss over facts. "The lessons of propaganda have been mastered by some nations of the world," the speaker said, mentioning Russia, Germany and Italy. He described how the Russians were put back in the schools. He pointed out that the authority of the church and the Bible are gone but that it is imperative to develop weights and measures of moral conduct.

A development of a critical ability, a skepticism of material submitted in the usual channels, was urged by the speaker before democracy can continue. A number of encouraging signs were reported by the speaker, chief of which he declared is the large number of independent voters. Voting once was done by tradition but today the number of independent voters is growing daily. The demand for speakers, the open forums, the increased reading of non-fiction works, and the increase of adult education even in fields of economy and sociology, were interpreted by Mr. Acheson as signs that the American public is trying to find sources of actual opinion from which to form its own opinions.

The speaker urged that teaching of ethics of a non-sectarian nature, the morals of right and wrong, be put back in the schools. He pointed out that the authority of the church and the Bible are gone but that it is imperative to develop weights and measures of moral conduct.

Aldermen Reject Proposed Boost In License Fees

6 to 4 Vote Holds Permit Cost for Taverns At $50

Menasha — Menasha aldermen refused to raise the license fee for tavern owners by a 6 to 4 vote at an adjourned session of the council Thursday night at the city hall. The ordinance introduced by Alderman John R. Scanlon proposed to raise the fee from $50 to $75.

Aldermen Tuchscherer, Laemmrich, Zeininger, Crowley, O'Brien and DeBruin voted against the increase while Aldermen Karrow, Pinkerton, Scanlon and Michalkiewicz voted for it.

The measure originally was introduced at the Tuesday session but action was deferred to give more time for consideration. Opponents of the increase still objected that given enough warning had not been increased and declared that it is not the time to give notice of an increase. Licenses are issued in July.

Zeininger pointed out that increases in state tax on liquors are being contemplated. He argued that no additional hardship should be placed on the tavern owner who already must pay a license for the privilege of doing business, which others do not have to do.

Argue for Raise
Scanlon pointed out that the increase in receipts would help the city pay its expenses. He also pointed out that an increase might force some out of business and that others would have to take up the slack so that the estimated receipts will come up to par. Pinkerton argued that Menasha fees should be higher to be in line with other valley cities.

Mayor W. H. Jensen pointed out that some taverns should not be operating and that if two of them didn't correct themselves 100 per cent he would see that they receive no license. The city ordinance calling for a bond from tavern owners was repealed. The state repealed its bond requirement recently.

Shooting of fireworks in Menasha will be limited to July 3 and 4 hereafter, according to the terms of an ordinance adopted by the Menasha aldermen. Retail sale of fireworks may not start until July 1. A maximum fine of $100 is provided in the new ordinance which is similar to the one adopted by Neenah recently.

Limit Fireworks
Alderman Scanlon pointed out that if sale of fireworks is permitted for five days there also will be shooting of fireworks for five days. Karrow declared one merchant told him that he favored the law. The vote was unanimous.

In discussing the maintenance and supervision of the new baseball stadium, the aldermen and mayor took a full hour and covered many matters outside the particular problem before finally reaching a solution.

Sam Kraus and George Cheslock were named as caretakers at the park. The baseball stadium will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning to 9 o'clock at night seven days a week during June, July and August. Each man will work a six-hour shift and will receive 40 cents an hour.

In the various phases of the discussion on the matter Alderman Zeininger suggested a meeting with the park board to plan an organized program for the stadium but the mayor objected violently to meeting with the board. Pinkerton pointed out that a young, active man was needed for the position.

Scores Park Board
The mayor criticized the park board for the low wages it pays its employees and strongly criticized teachers who are holding summer jobs. He pointed out that teachers' salaries are paid on a 12-month basis. The mayor objected to having Leslie Ansoerg, physical education instructor, act as lifeguard at the pool and declared that he never heard of the other man named to supervise the municipal beach.

Kenneth Carriack, park superintendent, pointed out that a trained man is needed as a lifeguard. Last year, seven youngsters were saved from drowning at the Memorial building pool. Carriack told the mayor that John Erick, lifeguard at the municipal beach, is a life-resident of Menasha.

Seed pods of the cottonwood trees, which have been floating thickly the last few days, were officially termed a "nuisance" by the city council in a resolution adopted last night.

A lengthy discussion as to whether or not the city could order down because they are shedding the "cotton fluff," Crowley pointed out that the city does not have to tolerate a nuisance and so the action was taken.

Observe Father's Day by Giving Him Good Breakfast and Pet Dishes at Every Meal

Happy youngsters making Dad happy on Father's Day with a dish they can prepare and that he should like.

BY MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

New York.—Start Dad off on Father's Day with a breakfast he particularly likes. But don't stop there, give him his pet dishes at every meal that day.

Most fathers like coffee cake. Here's a recipe for a nice one: Mix two cups of pastry flour, four teaspoons of baking powder and a quarter of a cup of granulated sugar. Cut in five tablespoons of fat and slowly add a quarter of a teaspoon of salt, one egg and one cup of milk. Pour the dough into a greased shallow pan and cover it with this topping:

Mix two-thirds of a cup of dark brown sugar with one teaspoon of cinnamon, a quarter of a teaspoon of nutmeg, four tablespoons of melted butter, and half a cup of raisins. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven and serve hot with butter.

Here's a dinner cocktail that appeals to men: For 6 portions, mix one cup of crabmeat with half a cup of finely diced celery, three tablespoons of minced sweet pickles and one tablespoon each of finely chopped parsley and pimientos. Season with a little salt and paprika and mix in a small amount of the sauce.

Here's a good way to make cocktail sauce: Mix a third of a cup of chili sauce, two tablespoons of catsup, one teaspoon each of chopped olives, parsley and lemon juice. Mix in one teaspoon of horseradish, an eighth of a teaspoon each of salt and paprika and a teaspoon of lemon juice. Serve the cocktail very cold, in glass cups lined with crisp lettuce. Top with paprika and lemon wedges.

Chicken and gravy with hot biscuits is another man's delight. Have plenty of chicken—a two-and-a-half pounder for each three members in the family. This will provide enough for a supper serving, too. Spiced peaches or watermelon pickles are grand runners up with this combination.

Front Rank Desserts

There are quite a few first-rank desserts for dads—apple dumplings, cherry cobbler, peach roll, strawberry shortcake.

For supper on this important day make up some good club sandwiches. Three slices of hot buttered toast are needed for each sandwich. Spread each slice generously with salad dressing mixed with a little catsup. Cover the first slice with chicken and top that with broiled bacon, add another toast slice and cover it with sliced tomatoes, spread with chopped pickle and then put on the top slice and serve immediately with extra fine hot coffee.

State Completes Initial Tests on Legume Cultures

Produce Satisfactory Nodules on Roots of Varieties Recommended

The first group of tests on 1939 commercial legume cultures offered Wisconsin farmers has just been completed by the feed and fertilizer division of the state department of agriculture, according to a bulletin received by F. J. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

W. B. Griem, chief of the division, reports that all of the 39 tests produced satisfactory nodules on the roots of the legume varieties for which they were recommended. In these cases the legumes were clover, alfalfa and peas.

It takes about four weeks to finish a test. The seed is inoculated with the culture, then planted in a jar of sterile sand and fed a complete nutrient solution, except for nitrogen, through a tube at regular intervals. When proper plant growth has been attained in the greenhouse, the sand is washed away and the roots are observed for nodules. Each nodule contains millions of nitrogen-fixing bacteria. The plant is then analyzed for nitrogen content.

A total of 100 samples representing more than 15 brands registered with the department are now being tested. Just as the geologist assays rock for gold or other mineral content, so the fertilizer division assays legume cultures for their ability to produce nodules of living bacteria. Completion of the legume culture tests will occur during June.

Wisconsin was one of the first states to test legume cultures, starting the work in 1922.

In recent years we have found no cultures that should be barred from sale in Wisconsin," Griem stated. "Registration of legume cultures offered in Wisconsin keeps out of our state a number of the brands that are of doubtful value. All legume cultures on the market in Wisconsin, according to our tests, show living bacteria."

FARM AUCTION
A farm auction will be held at the Fred Boers farm, 3 1/2 miles northeast of Antigo on County Trunk E at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Farm animals and equipment will be auctioned by A. S. Schenck, Clintonville.

Maintain Service For Checking of Diseased Plants

Prompt Action Necessary For Proper Control, County Agent Says

During the growing season many Outagamie county farmers may find in their fields, gardens and orchards, plants which are affected with some disease, and they are urged to bring them to the county agent's office for examination. Keen observation and prompt action often results in locating and checking new or dangerous diseases.

J. F. Magnus, county agent, in cooperation with the college of agriculture, maintains this service free for Outagamie county farmers. This service also helps state officials keep informed on plant disease situations throughout the state.

For those who have plant disease specimens, R. E. Vaughan, extension plant pathologist, tells of helpful ways to keep them until they can be examined and for giving needed information about them.

"First of all," he says, "observe closely the disease and the conditions under which it exists on the plant. Then collect the whole diseased plant if possible. Next the trouble should be described as nearly as possible, telling the shape, size, and color of the plant, the odor caused by the disease, if any, and the extent of the injury. Give the variety, location, and source of the seed or plant, the treatment which may have been used for disease control, if any, and the cultural practices."

Tender plants, Vaughan says, should be wrapped with moist paper about the roots if the soil is removed, then wrapped in waxed paper and placed in a corrugated paper box and brought or sent in for examination at once. Large leaves or stems without roots should be pressed between pieces of cardboard to keep the leaf shape before placing in paper and mailing. In the case of trees and shrubs, where it is impossible to send the whole plant, send leaves and twigs that show all stages of the disease. If this material is mailed in, a letter should also be sent, telling in detail about it.

Convict Asks for Pardon So He May Enter Monastery

Madison—(AP)—Thomas Stopa, 25, of Cicero, Ill., a convicted bank robber, wants to leave Waupun prison to spend the remainder of his life praying and painting.

Two Franciscan priests appeared before the state pardon board Wednesday to support the prisoner's application for executive clemency. Stopa hopes to enter the Franciscan monastery at Pulaski, Father Benedict Witkowski, the abbot, told the board.

Explaining that Stopa is a gifted religious artist, Father Witkowski exhibited three oil paintings he had completed while in prison.

Stopa was one of three Cicero youths arrested March 29, 1935, after a futile bank holdup at Mauston in which Russell Hale, bank cashier, was wounded during a gun battle. He was sentenced to 15 to 40 years.

The board took his application under advisement.

GLY-CAS GAVE HER BEST RESULTS OF ALL HER EXPERIENCE

this city. Everyday there are more and more local people calling at Voigt Drug Store, 124 East College Ave., to see the Special Gly-Cas Representative and have this modern capsule remedy explained to them.

"On the first box of Gly-Cas I could notice a decided change in my condition," continued Mrs. Bauer. "For two years I had been bothered with a stubborn case of constipation which had had its effect on my health in many ways. I first noticed aches and pains enveloping and settling in my arms and hands and as time went on this condition grew steadily worse. My knees became affected too and at times my arms were so sore and stiff I could hardly raise them. The suffering kept me awake at night and I became dreadfully nervous. Then too my foods began to cause me discomfort and I found it difficult to eat without gas and bloating afterwards. I could see my health problems becoming more and more of a problem but the medicine I tried would not give me any satisfactory results. But when Gly-Cas was brought to my attention and recommended so highly I gave it a trial and found it to be what I had been wanting for so long."

"Gly-Cas showed me wonderful improvement," continued Mrs. Bauer. "My bowels are now regular and I sleep fine, have more pep and enjoy doing my work again. That gas and bloating stomach is no more. I feel now and these aches and pains have shown such improvement that I can raise my arms above my head again, my nervousness has been relieved and I am feeling better than I have in many months. Is it any wonder I am glad to speak a good word for a medicine that has given me such wonderful results."

The Gly-Cas Representative is daily meeting the local public at Voigt's Drug Store, Appleton, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this modern capsule remedy.

Seymour Bests
Kaukauna, 1-0Arnold Kelly Winning
Hurler; Allows Only
Three Safeties

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
KAUKAUNA — The baseball folks from Seymour did a lot of talking around here last night, but it wasn't until the ball game was over and the lights turned down and the Seymour entry in the Northern State league safely out of the park with a 1-0 victory over the Kaukauna entry of the Fox River Valley league.

Despite the fact it was an exhibition contest there was a lot of good baseball, the boys were bearing down every minute, the Kaukauna infield had the jitters on the diamond and the Seymour clubbers had the jitters at the plate. The latter, of course, was because a goodly number of the Seymour performers were former Kaukauna players and their appearance at the plate brought forth a fair chorus of boos and wise cracks.

Kaukauna imported Larry Roock, Sheboygan chair hurler, who makes his home in Appleton and works in Menasha. And if Larry hadn't been around it might have been a bad evening.

Roock Fans Eleven

He gave up seven hits but when he allowed a blow he bore down right hard and showed his fast one or a curve ball that broke sharply. Larry fanned 11 batters and walked none. In the first he tossed three strikeouts and in the fourth and fifth turned in two for each frame. He fanned every member of the Seymour club at least once, excepting Zelinski and Hartjes. Kelly, Hammen and Penzenstadler hit the dust twice each.

Arnold Kelly, former Kaukauna player, tossed for Seymour and allowed three hits, one of which might have been called either way. He fanned four and walked five with his mates turning in several top plays to pull him out of trouble when he started issuing walks. Kelly usually outsmarted the Kaws; he had them off balance most of the evening with a deceptive change of pace.

Roock allowed two hits in the first frame but also had three strikeouts. He fanned Kroening but Powell popped one just back of the pitcher's box and beat it out. Kelly was a strikeout and Bowers singled sharply past short and into center. Eggert fanned to end the frame.

Double Play Hurls
Kaukauna started out impressively when V. Kappell singled into left. Vils moved him down with a bunt but Icky Von Drashek smashed a drive at Zelinski at third and Eddie turned in a great catch and doubled Kappell off second.

The second looked bad for the Kaws when Nicodem opened with a single to center. Zelinski laid one down and when Roock elected to try for Nicodem at second and threw high, all hands were safe. Larry then turned on the steam and fanned Hammen and forced Kroening to fly to short.

The first Kaukauna scoring threat came in the fifth. Gertz walked but was erased at second when C. Schuler bunted. Peck then drew a walk and all hands moved up on Martins' roller to third. Roock came to the plate and drew an intentional pass. V. Kappell hit to third and it appeared he'd beat it out but a rifle-like throw by Zelinski nosed him out and retired the side.

It was obvious all evening that if the Kaukauna squad cracked and turned in an extra error or two things would happen. The seventh brought the expected. Hartjes opened by rolling to C. Schuler who bobbed. Penzenstadler then whiffed but Kroening hit a high fly to

Snead Takes Lead
With 68 in First Round of TourneyWest Virginian Is Only
One Able to Crack Par
In Initial Play

BY GAYLE TALBOT
PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Sam Snead, the limber young West Virginian who paid income tax on more than $30,000 of golf earnings last year, led the field in the national open championship by a stroke as play resumed today on a Spring Mill course in the nearby hills.

Sam, with a 68 scored in yesterday's opening round, stood one jump ahead of a trio who exactly matched the layout's strict par of 69 in their first wrestle with its contours.

BADGER SCORES

Philadelphia — (AP) — First round scores in the national open golf championship tournament yesterday included:
Alvin Krueger, Beloit, Wis., 36-35-71.
Wilford Wehrle, Racine, Wis., 36-35-71.
John Revolta, Evanston, Ill., 36-37-73.
Joe Frank, Milwaukee, 41-39-80.
Henry J. Kaiser, Racine, Wis., 44-37-81.
Jim Milward, Madison, Wis., 37-39-76.

tours. They were Lawson Little, the former amateur king; Bud Ward of Seattle, the Walker cup star, and Matt Kowal, an assistant professional of this vicinity.

But between Snead and the championship stood 54 holes of back-breaking golf under constantly increasing pressure, and behind Snead looms the ever-towering figure of Ralph Guldahl. It will be a record for modern United States Golf association history if Guldahl makes this the occasion for this third straight open triumph.

Guldahl Cards 71
Big Ralph finished three shots off Snead's hot opening pace with a 71. Out of a round eight putts that should have dropped for birds, only two found their way to the cup.

Snead himself, despite the fact he was the only one to crack par, wasn't laying any untimely advance claims to the title. The amiable young hill-billy, like all of his topflight rivals, still was of the opinion that a score of 294, eight over par for the 72 holes, will be good enough to take down the $1,000 first prize and the extra dividends that go with the championship.

Sam has reason to be hesitant about making any predictions. Two years ago at Detroit, he also got off to a flying start, with a 69 over a par 72 course, and even the fact he finished with 283 wasn't enough to stave off Guldahl's stretch drive to a new tournament record of 281.

Wehrle Among Leaders
Off the first day's returns the course, and therefore this championship, looks like a great spot for the boys with power off the tee and the ability to keep that power in line.

The two other amateurs who placed in the first 15 at 71, Eddie Meister of Yale and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., cut loose some prodigious pokes. Wehrle added to the day's excitement by holing out a 160-yard iron shot for an eagle 2 on the 14th.

But even with such youngsters at or near the top, the old guard wasn't out of it yet. Tommy Armour, Olin Dutra and Craig Wood, who among them represent 117 years in age and almost half that many in topflight competition, were three of the six to post 70's.

for Graduation

Milwaukee — Fewer athletes than in several years are being lost to Marquette university varsity teams by the graduation route this spring, only 17 members of Hilltop major and minor sports squads being listed for sheepskins with the class of 1939.

Five football men, all of them veterans of the Marquette Cotton Bowl squad of 1936 and none regulars last fall, are being graduated. They are Ray Sonnenberg, Milwaukee 1937 captain; Herb Anderson, St. Paul, Minn.; Roger Lumb, Waukesha, Wis.; Donald Stewart, Antigo, Wis., and Ralph Kuhn, Milwaukee.

This year's Marquette Central collegiate championship track squad is losing three stars in Edward Burke, Brookfield, Wis., and Johnny Callahan, Milwaukee. Alex LeGrand, Milwaukee, ace pole-vaulter of three years ago, is winding up his law school course.

Graduating basketballers are Glenn Adams, Carpentersville, Ill.; Paul Sokody, Elgin, Ill., and David Quibus, Milwaukee.

Marquette minor sports teams are losing their No. 1 performers — Johnny Hayes, Oak Park, Ill., in golf, and Louis Olczyk, Milwaukee, in tennis. The senior class also includes Bernard Antisdal, South Milwaukee, Wis., and Russell Dreary, Milwaukee, of the golf squad and Carl Knoerschild, Milwaukee, tennis letterman.

Madison — (AP) — Bob Henrichs, University of Wisconsin pitcher, who is under contract with the New York Giants, started his professional career last night with the Madison Blues and dropped a 10 inning, 5 to 4 decision to the House of David team at Breese Stevens field.

Henrichs allowed nine hits. Bob Minor, House of David catcher, clinched the victory in the tenth with a home run.

Henrichs will report to the New York club after he graduates June 19.

Wilson, N. C. — (AP) — An announcement there would be no fanfare at the formal opening of the new baseball park brought newspapers this urgent plea from A. W. Phases of Sport to Be Covered

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
TWENTY-FIVE persons in the Appleton Post-Crescent's circulation area have sent registration blanks for the tennis school the newspaper will sponsor at the Appleton High school courts starting the week of June 19. Appleton entries topped the list but it was interesting to note that several were from Kaukauna.

And the age variations are from 12 to 13 year old girls to adults who have found in the game an opportunity to exercise and who appreciate the opportunity to improve their game, learn something about tennis and get it all free.

Entry blanks for the school will run daily on the sports page but you'd better fill one out immediately and forward it. We'd like to see the trend in registrations so that we can organize classes as soon as possible. The entry blanks will run until a few days before the school opens.

Reviewing the setup for the school, here are the most important features:
The school will be conducted on the eight all-weather courts at Appleton High school grounds. They have been offered by the Appleton board of education. The school will have exclusive use of the courts during the periods instruction is given.

LaBorde Is Instructor

The instructor will be George LaBorde, Oshkosh, who was a member of the Lawrence college and University of Wisconsin teams in his college days, and who now ranks as one of the top performers in the Fox river valley and the state. Mr. LaBorde is teaching tennis in Oshkosh, Neenah and Menasha.

If you are new to the game, there's one thing to remember: It requires almost a minimum of equipment. Soft-soled shoes, a tennis racket and one ball — with your name printed in ink — are all you'll need for instruction purposes.

The school is open to any boy or girl over 10 years of age and to men and women — anyone interested in tennis over the minimum age. And that goes for the many high school and junior high school students who probably have received a little instruction during the last year. Here's an opportunity to receive lessons from a recognized professional in the sport.

While Mr. LaBorde hasn't gone into detail about his lessons, the first will teach how to hold the racket, how to stand, and the proper footwork and weight control.

In the second lesson, the work covered in the first will be reviewed and then emphasis will be placed on the forehand drive and the backhand drive.

The third lesson will be given over to reviewing the first two to make sure that players have grasped the fundamental shots. Then the instructor will take up the service for the remainder of the lesson.

The fourth lesson will again feature review with volleying, net play and court position the new angles of the game.

Pittsburgh's newest southpaw pitching sensation is sure to write his name big on the scroll of National League achievement for the Pirates. It's a big name when you stretch it out full-length — Kenneth Alphonso Heintzelman.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — I doff my bonnet respectfully to Jimmy Roosevelt for his courage in undertaking one of Hollywood's most difficult assignments—the establishment of a pension plan, and more particularly, a pension fund, for veteran movie workers.

There's crying need for such a system. This town is filled to overflowing with a passé studio workers of all kinds who are out of work and penniless. The Motion Picture Relief Fund, a direct charity, has never been an ideal solution for their problems. It is both an invitation to chiselers, and an insult to those who by work and an insight to have earned something more than a back door handout.

Mr. Roosevelt plans to raise a fund of from 4 to 5 millions by taxing studios 1 to 1 per cent of each picture's cost—a tax which would represent, in the case of the major plants, from $150,000 a year to $300,000. With theatre returns at their lowest ebb in 7 years, he will undoubtedly have trouble in levying that large a contribution, but if he has the courage to make an issue of it—and I think he has—he may be able to do it. The thing that stumps me is how he—or anyone else—can devise a just scheme for distributing the pensions. This business is unlike any other. Movie workers come and go, shuttle back and forth between the screen and the stage. Production crews work on a picture-to-picture basis and often remain idle for weeks at a time. And movie careers are short. How will the pension fund's administrators rule between an office worker who has been employed steadily for 20 years and an actor whose services, though packed into a 5 year period, may have been just as valuable?

I'm not a born pessimist—but I think Jimmy has undertaken a Herculean job. If he succeeds, he deserves the plaudits of everyone in Hollywood.

When you see "The Man in the Iron Mask," you will hear some of the most blood-curdling screams ever recorded.

J. T. Penn Honored On 85th Birthday at His Home at Manawa

Manawa — John Thomas Penn, better known as "J. T." by Manawa youngsters from 8 to 80, celebrated his eight-fifth birthday Sunday with an open house at his home here. More than 120 persons called at the residence during the day to pay tribute to one of Manawa's most loved and respected citizens.

During his first 23 years here he lived at Coal City, Ill., and then moved to Wisconsin. He resided at Wittenberg for seven years and in November, 1909, came to Manawa. He has been owner of the Manawa Telephone company since his residence here.

He is making his home with two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Pemberton and Mrs. Mabel Harris. Another daughter, Miss Gladys Penn, is an instructor at Bakersfield, Calif., and will be home about June 15. Mrs. Penn died in September, 1936, and a son, Lyle, died in November, 1931.

All boys and girls in this community have been invited to take part in the program of sports and outdoor activities planned during the summer months beginning Monday, June 12. The meetings will be held from 1:30 to 5 o'clock each afternoon on the grade school campus and will be supervised by Roland Vaughan, local WPA recreational director. Another feature added to this year's program will be swimming and bathing at the pool near the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mace. Crocodiles and alligators do not differ a great deal. In outward form, they look nearly the same except that the alligator has a broader snout and its jaws are not quite so long. Both animals have rows of sharp teeth in their jaws; the teeth are nearly, but not exactly, the same in the alligator as in the crocodile.

Charles Waterton riding on a South American alligator.

The so-called "cayman" of South America is classed as an alligator. It is found chiefly in the Amazon valley, and is fairly common in some parts of the Guianas.

Charles Waterton, an English traveler in British Guiana, once took it into his head to capture a cayman alligator alive. He was at the time camping beside a river, with three Negroes and four Indians as companions.

One of the Indians baited a hook, and what a hook it was! The Indian had made it with pieces of wood, and it had a crosspiece about a foot wide. Fastened to it was a long, strong rope, and the hook was held up by a stick which was stuck in the river bottom. The hook dangled about a foot above the river's surface.

In the late afternoon, along came an alligator and snapped at the hook. He swallowed it, or at least got it in his mouth so far it would not come out.

The Indians knew something about the dangers of trying to handle a live alligator, even if it did have a big hook in its mouth, and they asked Waterton to shoot it. He would not do so, since he wanted to take it back to England alive. On the other hand, he was not sure how it would be best to finish the work of capture.

The animal was only a few feet from the bank. Waterton gave the rope to the Indians and Negroes, then made a jump and landed on the alligator's back. Quickly he reached down and seized the forelimbs of the alligator, and drew them back. This gave him something to hang to, and he needed it—he did not have what anyone could call a safe seat!

The alligator lashed with its tail, but the man was too far to the front to be reached. At this moment he called to the men on the shore to pull on the rope, but at first they did not hear him, because they were cheering so loudly.

At last they pulled on the rope, and the alligator was drawn up on the bank. Waterton had a ride of about 40 feet.

His companions soon tied a rope around the alligator's jaws, and also on the tail. Then the animal was placed in a boat, and Waterton took it away.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna.

they have of doing it. It's decent and it's honest and I say more power to 'em!"

Deeply Grieved
Her lips trembled and tears made dark blue pools of her eyes. When she spoke again her voice was low and bitter.

"You've always scoffed at the things Thorn and I believe in, Bob, yet I thought it merely a pose. I never imagined you would turn against me—oh, Bob, how can you look around you and not be hurt by the despoiling of Sealcliff? That horrible fence—like a prison wall—marring the terrace; cows in the riding stable; chickens on the tennis courts; beds of flowers plowed under to make room for carrots and onions! And now this! Doesn't it mean a thing to you that Sealcliff was built by a great man who became governor of this state? That one of the Presidents of the United States visited here? That this place has been the pride of Santa Barbara for years and years? Our own father would have been Mayor of Santa Barbara if he and Mother hadn't been in that terrible accident! I—I love Sealcliff, Bob. It—it's the only home I've ever known—I love its history—and now it is being cheapened and commercialized."

He saw she was deeply grieved, yet he could not offer sympathy. "I'm sorry you take it this way, Lyn. I don't even know what to say in defense—not that I consider it necessary to defend my thoughts and actions to you—but I do love you, Lyn. I was five when you were born. I was a lonely child. Thorn and I never got on well, even in childhood. I was crazy about you—" He paused, searching her face with tender eyes, then went on: "Lyn, Grandma Jocelyn knew when she made out her will that the Macks were about to lose their Texas farm. She knew they had no money. I can't believe that she did not foresee what would happen here with their coming. Grandma was hard-headed and practical. I feel sure she would want the Macks to be fed and clothed, don't you? Isn't it better for a family to have the necessities of life than it is to preserve the glory of the past by letting them starve?"

"Thorn offered them five thousand dollars to go away. They refused. We cannot drive them out. The only thing I can do is marry Geoffrey very soon and leave Sealcliff forever. I—I'm going back to the house, Bob—no, don't come with me."

He watched as she marched with militant steps through the rows of citrus trees.

"Poor kid," he said.
Gretchen, excited and rosy, enormously attractive in a starched house-dress of flowered percale, was handing a sack of fruit to a customer as Bob sauntered up to the roadside stand. He waited until she made change and the customer returned to his car.

"Hello," he called. "How's business?"

"Good! I've taken in two dollars and thirty cents already! Almost enough to buy Betsy a new pair of shoes and material for a dress. Isn't it perfect, Bob? We—we need so many things. It's been so long since we had a dollar that didn't have to go for food. We'll never be able to thank you enough for suggesting this. But your sister—what did she say?"

"Nothing much. You see, she's never been hungry or without money."

"Neither have you."

"No. But I have a good imagination."

Telegram
He broke off as a small human whirlwind descended upon him about his legs. "Mister Bob," pleaded Betsy, "don't let Uncle Tally spank me... please! I didn't steal anything—honest I didn't!"

Bob hoisted her to his shoulder; wiped her tear-smudged face with his handkerchief. "Nobody's going to spank you, Betsy. What's wrong?"

Gretchen, apprehensive, hurried to them. "What makes you think Uncle Tally will spank you?" she asked, trying the loose strings of Betsy's worn little shoes, pulling down her dress and pushing the silky black hair from her forehead. Reassured, pleased to be receiving so much attention, Betsy pursed her small mouth and achieved an injured expression. "I went into Joshlyn's garden and picked a whole big bunch of flowers for Grandma and she was awful mad and she said Uncle Tally would spank me because it was stealing—is that stealing, Mister Bob?"

"Well, in a way," he said, suppressing a laugh. "You see, Betsy, those flowers don't belong to you. When you want something that isn't yours you should ask for it first."

Her round black eyes were skeptical. "I wouldn't get 'em if I did. Grandma says I mustn't go on that side of the big fence and I mustn't ever ask Joshlyn things or bother her."

Gretchen's eyes appealed mutely to Bob. He said, "You're forgotten this time, Betsy, but don't do it again. Every time you get an impulse to trespass you come to me and I'll buy you an ice-cream cone."

"What's—a—a impulse to trespass?" she demanded.

"A feeling that you want to do something you know is naughty. Understand?"

Her eyes glinted impishly. "I want to play with that big doll in Joshlyn's bedroom, Mister Bob. Is that awfully bad? If I don't do it, will I get ice-cream?"

"If you do it you will get a spanking from me!" Gretchen threatened. "Maybe next week I'll buy you a doll."

"Like Joshlyn's?"

"Better," Bob promised. "I'll see to it myself. And now for the ice-cream. Is it all right if I take her into town, Gretchen?"

Betsy's mother seemed embarrassed. "If you want to."

As Bob carried the little girl to his car and put her in the seat Thorndyke came up. "Going to adopt her?" he queried ironically. "I might," Bob's voice was cool. Thorndyke regarded the child with distaste. "You'll spoil her by bringing her on our property, Bob," he said sharply. "She'll overrun the place when we have guests and don't want her."

Bob kicked the starter and shoved the gear into reverse. "Oh, shut up," he said. "You and Lyn make me sick. Neither of you have a humane instinct in your blue-blooded carcasses!"

Releasing the brake he stepped on the gas and backed the car around to face the driveway. "Wait a minute!" Thorn yelled. "I want to tell you something."

Bob applied the brakes and leaned over the side of the door. "Well, what is it?"

"I got a wire from Nola. She's flying in from Boston on the afternoon plane. She's coming for a long visit and what will she think about—"

"I don't care what she thinks about anything!" Bob snapped. "She's your fiancée; not mine."

Bob, angered, drove recklessly through the lane between bordering palms until Betsy touched his arm and asked, "What makes you look so mad, Mister Bob?"

He slowed the car. "Relatives, Betsy. I don't wish them any hard luck but I'd sure like to see them leave to earn their bread and butter just once!"

BEAR RESERVE
Ketchikan, Alaska (AP)—Establishment of a bear reserve at Loring as a candid-camera "hunting" attraction for summer tourists is the aim of District Ranger C. M. Archbold and the Alaska Sportsmen's Association here.

"Black bear are plentiful, and their easy accessibility will mean their extermination by rifle-armed hunters unless they are protected, Archbold said.
